

Woman, 80, Hospitalized In Appleton 'Butcher' Case

Police Officials Dig Wednesday night in the back yard of the George Schmidt residence in Appleton, where pieces of a human body were found. The residence, 319 N. Division St., was roped off and police continue to search for more evidence in the bizarre Appleton 'butcher' case. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Backyard Grave

Even Police Had Trouble Believing What They Saw

BY BILL KNUTSON

It started with a dirt-covered piece of flesh wrapped in newspapers.

Within two hours, some 15 Appleton policemen, many of them wearing dark suits and some, sweating in 37-degree weather, wearing short-sleeve shirts, had unearthed a backyard graveyard that concealed more than 20 pieces of a body.

Even the policemen, who were not totally unprepared for what they might find, could scarcely believe what they had stumbled onto once they started digging in the garden behind 319 N. Division St.

It was a sight one could expect to find in an Alfred Hitchcock thriller or the Frankenstein late movie. But not in a back yard three blocks off Appleton's main street, while neighbors slept.

For the first hour, police brought up a part of the body, presumed to be an old man, with each shovelful of dirt. First the small chunk of flesh — then two more pieces of unidentifiable flesh — then a forearm with the hand attached. Next came a lower leg, with the foot intact.

Each piece was carefully examined, then put into a large plastic bag. The bags were piled into small wash-tubs, which were sitting in the garden pocked with old, brown tomatoes and small, dead plants.

The work was done under a sliver of a moon that added little to the weak flashlights and strong beams of light, powered by large generators that hummed out across the backyard.

Policemen wore rubber gloves. At times the stench became nearly unbearable.

Some of the pieces lay exposed under a foot of dirt. But most were neatly wrapped in newspapers or burlap, kept together with nylon cord, sometimes tied in bows.

Shovels clanked against the cement foundation at the rear of the garage. Then police moved to the other end of the garden. The drone of the generators soon woke neighbors, who appeared in bathrobes. Some stayed to watch as police moved up the side lawn, looking for fresh dig-

Police tried to create as little a stir as possible, but 15 men digging in a back yard at 2 a.m. attract attention.

They found fresh earth alongside the front porch, and on the other side of the house. A garbage can yielded another part of the body. There always seemed to be at least one searcher who knew just what part of the anatomy had just been found.

By 3:15 a.m. police had spaded nearly the entire back yard and much of the rest of the lawn at 319 N. Division St. They re-sifted what they already turned over, yet parts still were unaccounted for.

The crowd thinned out. Curious neighbors went back home, but probably to tell their families what they had seen.

A seasoned police official leaned on his shovel and stared at the freshly spaded graveyard.

"I don't believe it," he said. "Not in Appleton."

Body Parts Found in Her Back Yard; Police Feel It May be Her Husband

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An 80-year-old Appleton woman was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital early this morning after additional parts of a human body were found in her yard and garden. She is Mrs. George Schmidt, 319 N. Division St.

Pieces of bone and flesh were discovered in her yard by police about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday. Several hours later police obtained a search warrant and entered Mrs. Schmidt's home. They found her sitting in her darkened basement with a rope dangling near her head. Less than an hour later police found additional pieces of the body buried in her back yard. The butchered body is believed to be that of Mrs. Schmidt's 84-year-old husband.

While an Appleton policeman remains outside Mrs. Schmidt's room at the hospital, police emphasized that she is not under guard or being held.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer said this morning that no charges have been filed, nor have any arrests been made. He declined to say when and if a charge would be made. Schaefer explained that his investigation, and that of other authorities, is continuing.

A mobile unit from the State Crime Laboratory was back in Appleton this morning. Laboratory experts were at 319 N. Division St.

'Search for More'

Schaefer said the experts will "assist in the search for more evidence."

The shocking, early morning discovery of a major part of a human body, scattered beneath the lawn and garden around the Schmidt home, brought police to the end of a relentless search that began Monday after four first and second graders at St. Joseph School found a sack containing toes and foot flesh on the playground.

First reports indicated that the person, presumed to be George Schmidt, had been dead from 1½ to 2 weeks.

Authorities said they could not term the case a murder until a further investigation is made. Schaefer said he is hopeful further studies by the crime laboratory will help determine how the person died.

Nor would police reveal how they believed the body was dissected into small parts, although it was learned that several "tools," including saws and knives, were found in the Schmidt home.

The State Crime Laboratory said Tuesday that a human liver, found near St. Joseph School Monday, held an "unknown non-metallic object resembling a pellet." The object could have penetrated clothing before entering the liver, authorities were told. Police would not speculate on the possibility of a shooting.

Authorities were still at 319 N. Division St. late this morning.

Appleton Police Detectives John Masaros, left, and Ronald Soper begin roping off the residence at 319 N. Division St. late Wednesday, after parts of a body were found in the yard. Mrs. George Schmidt, 80, who lives at the residence, was taken to an Appleton hospital when police found her in the basement in an apparent state of shock.

Warplanes Battle Swarms of MIGs

Weekly Casualty Figures Show Slack in Ground Action

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes fought nine air battles with swarms of MIG fighters over North Vietnam Wednesday, while the ground war generally slackened and the embattled U.S. Marine post at Con Thien had the lightest day of its month-long artillery siege.

Weekly casualty figures released by the U.S. Command today reflected a lull in the ground war. Last week the United States lost 128 killed and 1,434 wounded, well below the weekly average. Communist losses reported by the U.S. Command for the week were 1,134 dead, also below average.

Most of the American casualties were among the Marines holding positions in the Con Thien area, 2½ miles below the DMZ, against a possible invasion of South Vietnam's northern provinces by 35,000 North Vietnamese troops massed in and near the buffer zone.

Clearing skies enabled American pilots to fly 159 combat missions Wednesday in making a near-maximum effort over the North for the second straight day. The Americans ran into fierce antiaircraft fire and nearly every operational jet the Reds could put in the sky.

Although there were nine dog-fights with the MIGs and MIG21s, no planes were reported damaged or downed in these battles. The one loss listed by the U.S. Command was a Marine A4 Skyhawk jet hit by ground fire above the demilitarized zone, the 685th plane downed over North Vietnam. The pilot ejected over the Tonkin Gulf and was rescued.

The American planes, trying to impair North Vietnam's ability to support its ground forces in the South, struck at communist

Plane Crashes Into Empty Schoolyard

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Two airplane coming right down at aerospace civilian workers and five military pilots died Wednesday when their small plane nosedived onto a busy street and ricocheted into an elementary school — just 20 minutes after classes let out.

On any other day the Bradford Elementary School yard would have been abuzz at the time with pupils lingering beside the hand ball to pick up their bicycles.

But Wednesday was faculty meeting day and the 633 pupils were dismissed before the two-engine plane, owned by Ling-Temco-Vought Electrosystems, spiraled down, trailing smoke and with its left wing bent.

The craft hit a glancing blow on a passing car—the driver escaped injury—and careened through the bike racks and against a wall of the brick band building. It halted within 50 feet of the assembled teachers.

Ted Heimberger, 11, a sixth grader, was hurrying past the bike stand to football practice when, he said, he heard a "wild whirring sound" above and behind him and "there was that

Riot, Murder Plot Exposed In Philadelphia

Authorities Claim Negroes Would Have Poisoned Policemen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Revolutionary Action Movement, a Negro extremist group has been charged with planning to start a riot then poisoning thousands of policemen and top city officials.

Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter said warrants were issued for four members of the group which has been blamed in the past for planning to assassinate moderate Negro leaders and to blow up the Statue of Liberty and other national shrines.

One of the men being sought, Anthony B. Monteiro, 21, walked into a Chicago police station Wednesday night and surrendered. He was ordered held for extradition.

Specter said the warrants charged solicitation and conspiracy to commit murder, incite a riot and arson, attempted murder and other charges.

Cyanide in Food

Lt. George Fencil, head of the police civil disobedience squad, said in a court affidavit that the plan was to incite a riot this past summer, then put cyanide in food distributed free to police on riot duty as well as in restaurants throughout the city where "policemen and citizens would be taking food and drink."

Specter said one informant also claimed the lives of James H. Tate, Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo, and Specter "were to be taken."

Key to uncovering the plot was information offered by a man identified by Specter as Hilton Louis Jones, 22, who said he was a member of the plotting group.

Last week Jones went to the Philadelphia office of the FBI and turned over more than half a pound of potassium cyanide to special agent Edward Cole. Specter said.

The amount was "sufficient to kill at least 4,500 persons, according to experts," said Specter.

One Killed in Gas Blast at LA Plant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One person was reported killed and 46 injured today in a chlorine gas explosion at a chemical plant near the Los Angeles harbor area.

Victims overcome by the deadly gas were rushed to three hospitals.

Firemen said the explosion was apparently triggered when lightning hit near the American Chemical Co. plant.

Rio Grande Still Rising

President to Visit Flooded Area

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Floodwaters continued to rise in this lower Rio Grande Valley city today as President Johnson prepared to fly to the hurricane-and flood-devastated area for an inspection.

The Arroyo Colorado, massive diversionary channel of the Rio Grande, dropped slowly while the river edged higher.

Beneath the floodwaters lay more than 800 of this usually sparkling town's finest residences, some wholly submerged.

Build More Dikes
Families from 50 to 60 homes in less affluent neighborhoods were the latest to be driven out Wednesday night as the runaway Arroyo Colorado made end runs around hurriedly constructed dikes.

Bulldozer crews threw up new dikes to stem the flow shortly after midnight.
Flooding worsened as water shot in small geysers from overtaxed storm sewers. Engineers said the waters of the Arroyo, into which rainfall usually drains, were backing into the city because there was nowhere else to go.

More businesses suffered and more streets were awash.

Gov. John B. Connally, who planned to meet President Johnson in Austin today with a formal request for federal aid, ordered 300 additional National Guardsmen to join 600 already on duty in the stricken areas.

Stay on Job

Red Cross, Salvation Army, 4th Army and Texas Department of Public Safety disaster and relief crews, tired from days of turmoil unleashed by Hurricane Beulah and the subsequent floods, stayed on the job to care for refugees and direct evacuations.

As more water flowed in late Wednesday night, Mayor George Young told Harlingen residents via radio and television. "We'll be in jeopardy for another three days... With a little bad luck, we could be in another nasty mess."

"One of the things that could happen," Young said, was for rain to fall upstream. As he spoke, light showers peppered Laredo, 180 miles up the Rio Grande. There also was fresh rainfall on the stream's watershed in Mexico.

Refugee shelters housed 30,000 persons cared for by the Red Cross, 1,500 by the Salvation Army and hundreds of others in Reynosa and Matamoros, Mexican cities just across the Rio Grande.

Men, women and children joined hands to shore up shaky levees and dikes with sandbags protecting their homes and businesses.

The city of Mercedes, 13 miles upstream, attempted by court action to prevent repair of a levee break at Harlingen. Mercedes spokesmen contended such repair would force more water into the Rio Grande's main channel and cause dikes to break Mercedes and Weslaco, also upriver. A federal judge turned down the plea.

1,600 Feet Wide

With more than 16,000 sandbags in place, 200 men continued a 24-hour patrol of the Weslaco levees. The river was 1,600 feet wide at that point, where it often is only a trickle.

Food and drinking water were an increasing problem. Tons of surplus foodstuffs from the Agriculture Department were trucked into the devastated zone, the Red Cross said.

Citizens were told to boil all drinking water. Many drank beer and soft drinks when they could be found. A San Antonio brewery sent 150,000 gallons of bottled water.

When Poison Center's Red Telephone Rings

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

The symbol of a poison center is a red telephone, kept free of all but emergency calls. "Here's what I've had this morning," the man on duty at one of them told me. "First, a little girl who gave herself a rubdown all over with a perfume stick, and got some in her except what's supposed to be in it. In a grim collection of souvenirs in one center is a jar containing a preparation for straightening hair. "Just a cosmetic," its owner thought.

The label says, in capital letters, that it contains sodium hydroxide. Not everyone recognizes that as the chemical name for lye. So another child arrived at the hospital with burned lips, tongue red and white with ulcers, throat in spasm.

It takes many months to treat a scarred esophagus, with repeated dilation of it until the victim can swallow reasonably well.

An urchin who found an old golf ball, with the cover knocked off, was luckier. He patiently unwound the rubber binding. Then the liquid-filled core burst, squirting into his eyes.

The poison center recognized the danger, told the parents to keep rinsing the eye copiously with water until they got the child to the hospital. His eyesight was saved.

Not so lucky was the year-old child who ate one cigaret. She died.

"They eat everything," a poison-fighter remarked resignedly. "Cigaretts — and the filters from them. Somebody has some gasoline for the power mower in a cola bottle. They drink it. Match heads. Pesticides. Shoe Polish. Soap. Pretty berries, pokeweed, rhubarb leaves, lilies of the valley, all of which contain enough noxious ingredients to kill.

How would you like to work in a hospital which slightly oftener than once a week admits a child burned with lye? It happened last year. It is continuing at the same rate now.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms; treatment; how to speed recovery — write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

(Copyright, 1967)

Centers tell where the nearest hospital is, sometimes call police or fire departments or ambulances for panic-stricken people.

Sometimes a frenzied mother can't calm down enough to give the facts. Seasoned staffers know when to shout into the phone. "Now just shut up!" It can shock people into regaining their wits.

One girl, about 14, kept calling and asking, "How much aspirin will kill you?" Asked who she was and where, she hung up. Then the phone would ring again. She's been eating pills for two hours. At last, retching and not so sure that she wanted to die after all, she gave her address and was treated in time.

Not all have a happy ending. A girl of five died in less than an hour after the first call. Her parents didn't know she was sick — until they found an empty milk bottle in the yard. They had been keeping some spray for the rose bushes. This can have a milky appearance.

Yet people go on ignoring the warning: Never use a milk bottle or pop bottle for anything

Historic Birth Control Meeting in Venezuela

BY SYLVIA PORTER

In mid-September several dozen of Latin America's top government officials and demographers met in Caracas, Venezuela, to discuss what was politely called "population policies in relation to development."

Porter

marked the first official recognition that Latin America's population explosion has reached a crisis point threatening the area's very economic survival.

Here are the facts which led up to the historic meeting:

— Latin America's multi-billion dollar Alliance for Progress, launched in 1961, is not keeping up with Latin America's multiplying numbers. Since 1961 Latin America's population has grown by more than 40 million — virtually wiping out any overall economic progress made under the Alliance.

GNP Growth

— Originally the goal was a 2.5 per cent yearly growth in per capita gross national product. But last year per capita GNP rose only 1.1 per cent. In Venezuela today 5 per cent of the population gets 50 per cent of the nation's income.

— At the start, great strides in agricultural production were envisioned. However, the United Nations estimates that total Latin American food production fell by 4 to 5 per cent on a per capita basis during the latest crop year for which figures are available. As a result, says the U.N., Latin America's food situation today is "more precarious than at any time since the period of acute shortage immediately after the Second World War." Hunger causes one in four Latin American deaths today.

— The Alliance's goal was to wipe out adult illiteracy by 1971 and to provide at least six years of education for each Latin American child. But today, one in three Latin Americans still is illiterate. Only 8 per cent of children entering first grade are going on to high school.

— There were to be big boosts in the construction of low-cost housing. But today, less than one-fifth of the estimated 1,000,000-plus new housing units needed each year are actually being built and the housing deficit is soaring.

— There are now 252 million Latin Americans, nearly three times the number there were in 1920. By the year 2,000, at today's fantastic growth rate, the population is due to triple again. In some Latin American countries the current rate of population growth is as high as 3.8 per cent — nearly four times the U.S.'s growth rate.

Surely you would think these facts are dreadful enough to have brought on far more than a conference by now! But only five Latin American governments officially encourage or even condone fertility control. Total spending for birth control services — largely by private agencies — is only about $1 million a year. The average Latin American woman is helpless in her ignorance.

Spectacular Progress

Against this background, the Caracas meeting amounts to a spectacular progress. As Robert Cook, president of the Population Reference Bureau in Washington, reported to me: "Never before have the top officials in ANY developing area convened and concluded that checking the population explosion should have top priority in any scheme of economic development. This is no longer an unmentionable goal."

Meanwhile, there is growing evidence that individual Latin American families favor and are eager to get family planning services. With government awareness and with private cooperation at last, we may be seeing in Latin America the beginning of the end of the world's biggest and most serious hunger crisis.

Proxmire Raps Slum Landlord Tax Benefits

Fowler Called Upon To Alter Code That Keeps Tenements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., called on Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler Wednesday to propose changes in the tax laws to eliminate what Proxmire described as tax benefits for slumlords.

There is much evidence that the federal income tax code works to perpetuate slums, Proxmire said.

"Tax reform in the field of real estate can be a most effective way of helping to solve the problems of our central cities without costing the government money," Proxmire said in a letter to Fowler.

Tax Revisions

He urged that such changes be included in a broad revision of the tax laws reported under consideration.

"Our tax laws increase the profitability of operating slum housing, encourage inadequate maintenance expenditures and discriminate against new construction as an alternative real estate investment," Proxmire said in a statement.

"There is a built-in incentive not to make repairs because the shorter the economic life of a structure, the quicker the tax write-off," he said. "The tax provisions favor investments in used buildings as opposed to new construction because the shorter estimated life on used property permits more rapid tax write-off of the initial investment."

Wheel Chair Patients Want Building Ramps

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifteen persons in wheel chairs showed up Wednesday to urge the City Council that ramps for easy access to public buildings be required in a proposed new building code.

City Hall has no such ramps, and the council chamber is on the second floor. So the hearing was moved to the ground floor of a building behind City Hall.

Pope Eases Law on Mixed Marriages

LONDON (AP) — Pope Paul VI has relaxed the law on mixed marriages so that an Anglican priest may officiate at the marriage of his daughter to a Roman Catholic.

This was disclosed Tuesday by two Roman Catholic bishops, the Rt. Rev. Joseph Rudderham and the Rt. Rev. Charles Grant. The wedding will take place Saturday in the Anglican Cathedral Church of Bury St. Edmunds, with Judith Rhodes marrying Nicholas Turner. Miss Rhodes is a member of the Church of England, like her father, Canon Cecil Rhodes.

The bishops' statement said: "Since Canon Rhodes was naturally anxious to celebrate the marriage of his own daughter, the bishop of the Catholic bridegroom laid the matter before his holiness the Pope, who in these exceptional circumstances and on hearing that the Catholic upbringing of any children was assured, readily relaxed the Church's law to allow him to do so."

Proxmire Vows To Fight Funds For New Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., promised Tuesday he will try to cut from the Department of Transportation's annual appropriation a request for $142,375,000 in federal funds to help develop a Supersonic Transport airliner.

Proxmire urged that the Senate deny the request. He said that $124.5 million of federal funds are available from earlier appropriations and commercial airlines have promised to supply $64 million of risk capital for the new airliner this fiscal year.

Proxmire said this would supply $188 million this year for the project, handled by the Federal Aviation Agency, which has asked $349 million more federal funds.

A "stretch-out" of the program would allow more time for research, Proxmire said.

Mass Slayer To be Tried For Murder

Green Bay Youth Insane at Time of Arrest in 1963

GREEN BAY (AP) — A 20-year-old youth will be returned from Central State Hospital at Waupun to stand trial for murder in the 1963 mass slaying of five members of his family.

Brown County Judge James W. Byers said today Dr. E. F. Schubert, superintendent of the mental hospital, had reported Harry Raymond Hebard "now recovered sufficiently to be tried for the alleged offenses."

Hebard is charged in the gun slaying Feb. 19, 1963, of his father, Jack, 37; his stepmother, Joyce; his 11-year-old twin step-sisters, Janice and Judy Rudell, and a stepbrother, John Rudell, 15. Four counts of first degree murder were placed against Hebard. A fifth, involving John Rudell, was held in abeyance. All of the victims were shot in the head with a .22 calibre weapon.

Shot at Home

The shootings occurred in the Hebard home, Harry, then 16, was picked up the following noon in Pulaski.

Authorities were told young Hebard had been under psychiatric care prior to the shootings. He was taken first to juvenile court where Judge Byers waived jurisdiction to criminal court. The youth's court-appointed attorney raised the sanity issue and on March 13 Hebard was committed to Central State Hospital for an indeterminate period of treatment.

Judge Byers said he would review the hospital file and set a date for the youth's return, probably within a month. He said the procedure probably would be to retrace the action through juvenile court for constitutional safeguards, then criminal court.

Dist. Atty. Robert Rahr Flatley said today the four-year delay did not "present much of a problem, but the question of sanity does."

"If the defendant was found insane and unable to stand trial (at the time of arrest), there is a pretty good chance for a defense claiming he was insane at the time the offenses were committed," Flatley added.

Clintonville Teachers Attend Conference on Reading at WSU-O

CLINTONVILLE — Ten faculty members attended a reading conference Saturday at Reeve Memorial Union, Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh (WSU-O).

They were Mrs. Sophia Johnson, elementary supervisor; Mrs. Robert Pasch, Mrs. Rex Michaelis, Mrs. Ervin Remling, Mrs. Edna Sutton, Mrs. Nathan Wiese, Mrs. Gertrude Fox, Mrs. Esther Westphal, Mrs. Charles Thomas and Miss Verna Schoepke.

Brillion Joins in Protest to County Consolidation Plan

Contend Calumet Would Assume Winnebago, Outagamie Debts

BRILLION — Mayor Clarence Wolf and members of the city council were outspoken this week in their opposition to Assemblyman Harold Froehlich's legislative proposal to merge Calumet, Outagamie and Winnebago counties.

They contended that it would not be fair for Calumet residents to assume the indebtedness of the other two counties when Calumet has assets. (Total disbursements in Calumet during 1966 were $3,216,167; total receipts were $3,141,117 and cash on hand at the end of the year was $808,972.)

According to the proposed bill, the new county seat would be located in either the Town of Menasha or the Town of Harrison, and the new county would be known as Winnebago.

Winnebago and Outagamie counties have populations about 10 times that of Calumet with 3,200 residents. Consequently, Calumet voters would not have a "fair voice" in the referendum to determine the county seat site, those here opposing the bill claim.

Write to Assemblymen

City clerk Lynn Williams was appointed to write to Calumet County Assemblyman Gervase Hephner to inform him of Brillion's stand on the issue.

A request by the Brillion Historical Club for city payment of liability insurance on the area to be used to house historical records, objects and buildings was referred to the finance committee to obtain cost figures.

Some $96,901 will be withdrawn from the general fund and placed in five special funds, according to a resolution passed at the meeting. They are sewage system bond and interest fund, $3,000, water department mortgage revenue bonds, $3,000, five-year street improvement fund, $10,000, fire department fund, $901, and community recreation center fund, $80,000.

Resolutions were read banning parking on the north side of Dewey Street and outlawing amplified sounds, barking dogs and crowing fowl.

A city planning commission recommendation to accept the street grades behind the Alfred Schroeder property, established by McMahon Associates engineers, was held in abeyance until aldermen can personally check the area involved.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) assistant regional director, a HUD planner, and representatives of Candeub-Fleissig and Division of Extended Services of the University, was to acquaint educators in the state with the most recent ideas in the field of reading education.

Hebard Will Again Face Murder Trial

waived to criminal court, a prerogative of juvenile court judges when a defendant is between 16 and 18 years of age.

Upon appearance in criminal court, Hebard asked for court-appointed counsel, and Atty. Robert Parins was named by the court to defend the youth. Parins submitted a motion indicating Hebard was probably insane and unable to assist in his own defense.

Two psychiatrists, from Appleton and Sheboygan, were named to examine the defendant, and both returned reports indicating the youth was mentally incompetent to aid in his own defense. On March 13, 1963, Hebard received an indeterminate commitment to Central State Hospital.

Recent Rules

Because of recent rules laid down by the U. S. Supreme Court concerning the handling of juvenile offenders, the original waiver to criminal court, according to Judge Byers may have been illegal.

The first step upon the return of the defendant therefore will be an appearance in juvenile court with all the constitutional safeguards provided for. It is likely Hebard will again be waived to the criminal court.

School Safety Patrol Organized at Shiocton

SHIOCTON — A school safety patrol has been organized by members of the eighth grade class.

Nine students have been assigned street crossings for each school day. Lyle Burmeister was elected captain and Linda Carpenter was elected lieutenant.

services of Miss Collins, but emphasized his feeling she should have no official connection with the civic celebration.

Phone Calls

Buckley said he received "almost continuous phone calls" objecting to Miss Collins' parade appearance.

Asked approximately how many calls he got since Monday, the mayor replied, "About a dozen . . . I really didn't keep track."

Ehrlicke reported that on Monday he received calls from two women, who refused to give their names, objecting to Miss Collins being in the parade.

Ehrlicke told how this morning the mayor approached him and asked that he (Ehrlicke) call the sponsoring merchant and ask him to voluntarily withdraw Miss Collins from the parade.

"I asked the mayor if this was an official order and he said it was," Ehrlicke said. "I explained to him that I would have to take the matter up with the committee, because I didn't have the authority to override the group."

The 21-year-old Miss Collins has been featured daily in TV commercials heralding the debut of 1968 model cars. She received a special commendation from the Defense Department and other top officials for her tour of Vietnam earlier in the year.

"Miss Collins is a fine young woman and we're proud to have her make public appearances such as these," commented a spokesman for Playboy Magazine. He was here Saturday to check out the celebration program.

Three other pretty girls will add a touch of beauty to the College Avenue program.

Also scheduled to participate in the parade and other special events are: Miss Wisconsin, Miss Barbara Burk Baugh, Brookfield; Miss Appleton, Miss Adrienne Kulieka, a student at Lawrence University; and Miss Kathy Burns, Cleveland, Ohio, General Electric Company's "Miss Lady of Light."

Miss Collins and Miss Burns will fly to Appleton, arriving here Thursday.

Politicians Say Frank Church Recall Is Dead

Effect on 3rd Term Bid by Senator Draws Some Disagreement

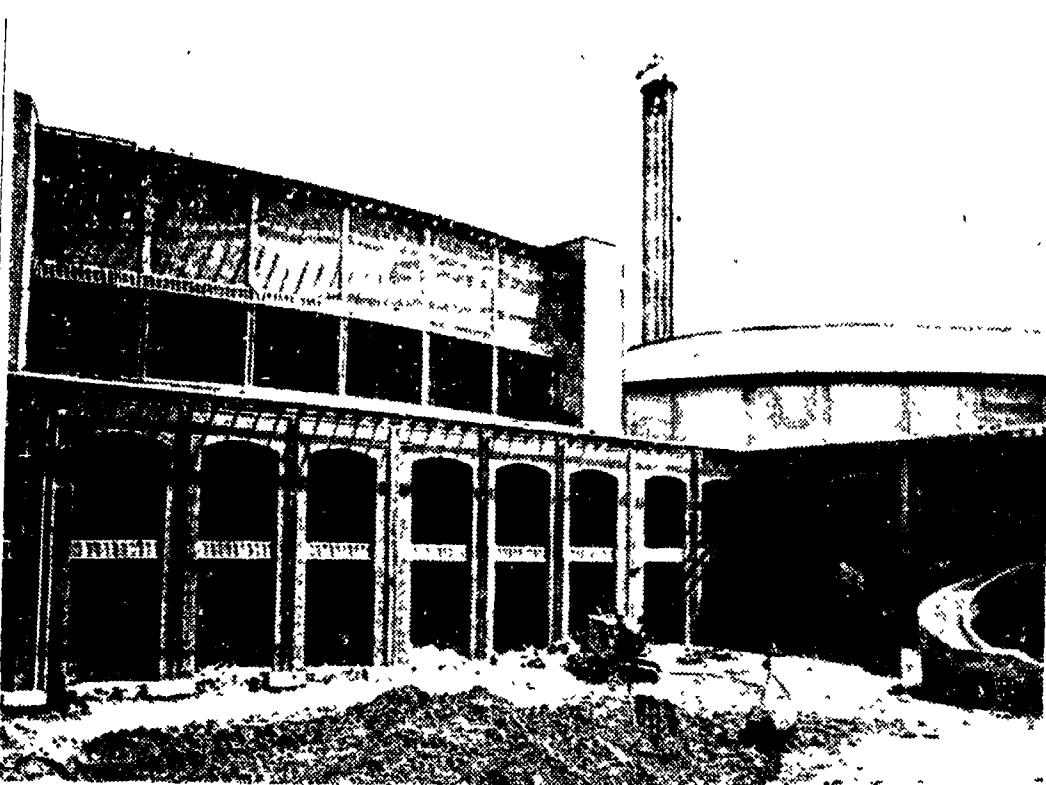

By EARLE L. JESTER Associated Press Writer
BOISE, Idaho (AP) — There is general agreement among Idaho politicians that the move to recall Sen. Frank Church is dead.
There is some disagreement as to its effect on the senator's expected bid for a third term. Some think the recall proposal will help the 43-year-old Democrat; others say it will have been forgotten before the 1968 election. Church himself thinks it will help. He says it already has in the form of $4,000 to $5,000 in contribution of 1 and $2 each. Donations came from all over the country, Church said, including many from Californians who said they were enraged because California manufacturer William Penn Patrick provided the original financial backing for the recall movement.
The proposed recall itself never got off the ground. Two preliminary petitions were turned down by the secretary of state because neither had 20 signatures of qualified voters as required by law.
A third, which met that requirement, was refused after State Atty. Gen. Allan G. Shepard, a Republican, ruled that a U.S. senator is a federal official and not subject to recall under state law.
Recall Chairman
That ruling has been challenged in state court by Ronald D. Rankin, a Coeur d'Alene businessman who was an original backer of the recall, but Rankin has said even if he wins he has no intention of proceeding with the movement. He said he filed suit only in an attempt to get Shepard's opinion overruled by a court, and thus eliminate it as a precedent. Rankin has conceded that the recall campaign cannot succeed.
Gene G. Mileck, a painting contractor at St. Maries, was chairman of the committee sponsoring the recall. He said he opposed Church because the senator was against the bombing of North Vietnam, and because the senator voted to ratify the U.S.-Soviet treaty that permits the opening of more consulates in both countries.
But Mileck agreed with Rankin and others that the recall is dead. He blamed inactivity by other members of the committee—whom he never identified.
John McMurray, Republican state chairman, said he believes the recall move will have no effect on Church's campaign for re-election.

Madison for Open Housing City Council Gives Preliminary Okay To Liberal Ordinance

MADISON (AP) —The Madison City Council, meeting as a committee of the whole, voted 16-6 Tuesday night to make its city open housing ordinance the most complete in Wisconsin.
The proposal, expected to be passed at the council's regular Thursday meeting, would eliminate nearly all exemptions to the present ordinance, which, when it was passed in December of 1963, was the first in the state.
"The issue is purely and simply equality," said Mayor Otto Festge, who attended the meeting and supported the proposal. Spokesmen from several religious and civic groups also spoke in favor of the ordinance revision during the three hour session.
The new proposal would eliminate all but two of the exemptions in the current Madison ordinance.
The exceptions would be that a single family home owner could rent up to four rooms and still use any basis for renting and that religious institutions would be allowed to give preference to persons of the same religion in institutional housing.

Hanoi Military Claims Rejected By Westmoreland

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters Wednesday again accused the N. Vietnamese of lying about the war, saying military actions reported by Hanoi "have been flagrantly out of line with the truth." In the fourth of a series of statements over the past four weeks, Westmoreland's headquarters cited three instances in which it said Radio Hanoi exaggerated claims regarding military operations.
The statements are part of a U.S. propaganda campaign aimed at discrediting Hanoi's reports, a departure from the previous American command policy of not commenting on enemy claims.

Hemis Fair Readying For Opening in April

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — This one-time Spanish mission village that bloomed into a major population center, is throwing a $156 million birthday party next year and more than seven million guests are expected.
The "party" is Hemis Fair '68, an international exposition which will mark the Alamo City's 250th year.
HemisFair, which opens for six months on April 6, already dominates this city of 695,000. Reminders are everywhere—from drawings on the cover of the nearest telephone book to the nearly completed 622-foot Tower of the Americas that soars above all the other buildings in the city and can be seen from miles away.
The exposition site, two blocks from the Alamo in the heart of downtown, is now 92 acres of dusty trails, concrete ditches, skeleton-like structural steel and immense holes.
Constant Work
But an around-the-clock construction schedule is expected to turn it into a park of svelte landscaping, sweeping modern buildings and slickly styled exhibits.

Tickets went on sale July 1 and more than 1.1 million have already been sold. Some of the city's hotels took their first reservations for fair visitors months ago.
Twenty-three governments, including the United States and the states of Arkansas and Texas, have signed on as exhibitors. Texas is sinking $10 million into a permanent structure and the United States is paying out $6.7 million for a two-building exhibition.
Private Exhibits
Fifteen private or industrial exhibitors are also drawing up plans for Hemis Fair.
All exhibits will center on the fair's theme, "The Confluence of Civilizations." The concept will pay tribute to the many cultures that helped create America.
Theme structure of the fair is the Tower of the Americas, a concrete and steel spike with a restaurant and observation decks on top. The restaurant will revolve slowly, giving diners an estimated 75 miles of Texas countryside to look at while they eat.
Construction on the tower has reached the 602-foot mark. The rest of its height will be added by the tophouse, now being constructed on the ground around the base of the tower. When completed, the 600-ton tophouse will be jacked up the tower in a 22-day haul.
Started With Loan
The fair came to life originally as a "Fair of the Americas", with only North and South America participating. It went international to receive the certification of the Bureau of International Expositions—a requirement for U.S. participation. Funds for Hemis Fair started with a $4.5 million loan from local banks. Part of this was used to draw in $8 million more in an underwriting campaign among local merchants. Then the federal government put in $12 million in urban renewal funds, used to rip out acres of slum housing to create a fair site. San Antonio voters approved bond issues of $30 million for a convention center and $5.5 million for the Towers of the Americas.

Appleton Library Board Sets $170,964 Budget for 1968

A $170,964 budget for 1968, a 6 per cent increase over the 1967 budget, was adopted for the Appleton Public Library by the board Tuesday at the annual meeting.
Salaries, retirement plan, books and periodicals are most responsible for the $8,859 boost, according to Gordon Bebeau, chief librarian.
Salaries come to $99,791, an increase of $1,551; retirement, $6,235, an increase of $1,285, and books and periodicals, $38,500, an increase of $3,500.
Elect Officers
Officers elected at the meeting were Don Herring, on the board since 1960, remains president, Elmer A. Otte, also serving since 1960, re-elected vice president, and Mrs. H. F. Hackworth, a member since 1961, re-elected secretary.
Don Smith, on the board since

Herring

1963, was elected assistant secretary to fill the position vacated by Edward Krueger, who resigned in June. Herbert H. Helble was appointed to the board in July but the position of assistant secretary remained vacant until the election Tuesday.

Woman Can't Convince Judge of Her Sincerity
LONDON (AP) — Two months ago Mrs. Deborah Hudson-Garber sued her husband, Emmanuel, for divorce. Since then they have been sleeping in the same bed.
The woman appealed in divorce court Tuesday for an order to make her husband leave the house until her petition charging cruelty is heard. The husband's attorney said there were only two beds in their home and their three children slept in one.
The judge ruled that the husband may stay in the house and suggested that he sleep in one bedroom with the couple's son and the wife in the other with their two daughters.

digging and searching for parts of the body still missing — including the head and some parts of the upper torso.

Mrs. Schmidt reportedly was in satisfactory condition. Four detectives who went to her home with a search warrant about 12:35 a.m., found her seated on the basement floor, in complete darkness. They entered the basement by forcing a door, after she did not respond to their knocking. A coil of rope, fastened to ceiling beams, dangled near her head.

Det. Lt. Robert Frailing, one of the four who entered the basement, said Mrs. Schmidt was "completely mute" and appeared to be in shock when they tried to talk to her. An ambulance was summoned immediately.

Police then combed the basement and first floor of the brown, two-story frame house (another couple lives upstairs) and finally shifted their search to the garden behind the garage, where the first grisly discovery was made at 1:40 a.m.

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff said, during a 4 a.m. news conference today, that a patrolman had been sent to the Schmidt home Sept. 15 following a report of a family quarrel.

Mrs. Schmidt reportedly was advised at that time that there was no action police could take, since it was more of a civil matter.

Seldom Seen

Schmidt reportedly was in poor health and was seldom seen outside his home.

Mrs. Schmidt told police, when they talked to her Wednesday afternoon, that her husband was not home. Wolff said that she gave police vague, conflicting information as to her husband's whereabouts, and at one point said that "some woman picked him up and took him to Milwaukee."

Police, in reflecting on the first real break in what they agreed was the strangest and most bizarre case in recent crime records, said it would have to be the discovery late Tuesday night of two packages of flesh, wrapped in newspapers, in bushes in front of a vacant house at 543 N. Division St. — just two blocks north of the Schmidt home.

Patrolmen Gerald Breen and Bruce Peirson discovered the packages, containing ribs and large chunks of flesh believed to be from a leg or arm, after they were called to investigate reports of children near the boarded-up home about 11 p.m.

The four packages of flesh found Monday were on the old St. Joseph School playground, in a St. Joseph Church window well, and in a grassy ravine 500 feet north of the school playground. Nearly all the packages were neatly wrapped in newspapers, most of them Post-Crescents.

Searched Neighborhood

After Tuesday night's discovery near the vacant house, some policemen Wednesday painstakingly searched the near north-side neighborhood, while others repeated an earlier canvass of the homes and business places on the near southside, surrounding old St. Joseph School.

It was during a search of the Division Street area that John Masaros, an acting detective, spotted a bone 16 inches long, atop dirt in the backyard garden at the Schmidt home.

Chief Wolff revealed at this morning's news conference that a short time later police found human flesh, possibly from the upper part of a leg. The package was tied with nylon string, as were earlier packages.

Wolff said that police questioned Mrs. Schmidt, under the pretense of being interested in learning if the Sept. 15 family problem had been resolved. It was then she gave police unclear answers.

'Strong Stench'

Police said the living room of the Schmidt home was "covered with newspapers" and there was a "strong stench inside."

A detective and a patrolman later went to the house and after again receiving "unsatisfactory answers," were told to leave, by Mrs. Schmidt. Police then talked with neighbors.

After that, a veil of secrecy fell over activities at the police station. Discussions were in low tones and behind closed doors. Calls continued to come in from persons finding clothes, knives and even bloody newspapers.

Then came the second break. Dr. James W. Erchul, St. Elizabeth Hospital pathologist, told police the bone and flesh found behind 319 N. Division St. Wednesday afternoon were from a human.

Based on that information, and on suspicions as to the whereabouts of George Schmidt, police officials called in the district attorney to confer about obtaining a search warrant to get into the Schmidt house.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller was called at 10 p.m., and he got out of bed to come to the courthouse to hear testimony, behind closed doors, during a search warrant hearing that lasted 50 minutes.

Among those at the hearing, besides court officials, were Detectives Richard Jirschele, Leo Bosch, Frailing and Masaros; Patrolman Darrell R. Berglund; Chief Wolff; Coroner Bernard H. Kemps; Dr. Erchul; and Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Belair, who live in the upstairs apartment at the Schmidt house.

Signs Warrant

Judge Keller signed the search warrant at 11:45 p.m. and handed it to detectives.

Sgt. Gary Kilby already had ordered "10 picks and 10 shovels" from the city shop. Kemps and Det. Sgt. Carl Thiel had returned from the crime laboratory where they had taken clothing, bones and the two packages of flesh found Tuesday night.

After the search warrant was signed, Detectives Thiel, Frailing, Bosch, and Wayne Huebner went to the Schmidt home to awaken Mrs. Schmidt. They found her on the basement floor.

Several more policemen, led by Chief Wolff and Inspector John V. Gosch, then sped to the home from the police station, where they were awaiting a call. It was after they arrived that the police drove stakes into the ground and roped off the yard, then searched the house.

'Articles of Evidence'

Wolff declined to elaborate on what was found in the house, but did say at the news conference that "several articles of evidence were gathered." He said there would have to be a determination as to whether any of the "tools" found in the building contained "substances or markings." A patrolman was seen carrying out a box filled with small bottles.

The yard digging, which started behind the garage, lasted until 3:30 a.m. and was done with the aid of floodlights. Each part of the body was placed in a plastic bag, and the bags were loaded into small washubs for examination at the crime laboratory.

Warplanes Battle MIGs

communications links and supply points. Air Force planes raked Hanoi's rail lines to Red China and an ammunition dump near Hon Gai, the country's second port.

Navy planes from the carriers Constellation, Coral Sea and Intrepid pounded supply routes up and down the coast, and reported hitting a number of barges.

Most of Planes

The Communist intercepting force included nearly all the planes the U.S. Command believes are at bases south of the Red Chinese border. U.S. officials say the rest of North Vietnam's air force, totaling 80 to 90 planes, is stationed in Red China and flown south to North Vietnamese bases for use as needed in the air war.

American fliers said the enemy planes darted from clouds, firing air-to-air missiles, then sped out of range with extra thrusts of speed from afterburners. The U.S. pilots, who fired their own missiles, said the MIGs seemed to deliberately avoid long engagements.

Communist fire on the fortress at Con Thien appeared to be falling off and only 103 rounds were reported Wednesday. Casualties there were listed as two dead and two wounded.

Seven Years of Fighting U.S. War Casualties Total Nearly 100,000

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war dropped sharply last week but the total of U.S. casualties since the fighting began nearly seven years ago approaches 100,000.

An unofficial survey of casualty figures for this year, gave no sign that last week's drop in casualties was part of any long-term decline.

The U.S. Command said 128 Americans were killed during the week, 1,434 were wounded and four were missing. A week earlier, U.S. forces lost 236 killed, 1,774 wounded and four missing.

Most of last week's casualties occurred south of the demilitarized zone, where U.S. Marines blocking possible Communist invasion routes to the south have received nearly continuous shelling.

Drop Predicted

Henry Cabot Lodge, then the U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, had predicted in January that the percentage of U.S. casualties in Vietnam would drop this year.

But official reports show that the rate of U.S. casualties has increased during the year. By March 31, the Pentagon reported U.S. combat deaths running 66 per cent above average weekly losses in 1966.

The number of Americans killed rose from 67 in the first week of January to a peak for 1967 of 337 killed in the week of May 14-20.

13,000 Dead

But unofficial tally, 13,493 Americans have been killed in Vietnam and 84,877 wounded, a total for the war of 98,370.

Following are Vietnam casualties from Jan. 1 in four week totals, except for two weeks in September. Figures for wounded were not given until April.

'Loose Link' Found In Negro Violence

Senate Investigators Produce No Evidence of National Conspiracy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators, quietly at work in cities across the nation, have found no evidence of a national conspiracy behind outbreaks of violence—but believe there is “a loose linkage” among militant Negro leaders.

That preliminary indication is in line with the report of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to President Johnson’s Commission on Civil Disorders.

Senate sources disclosing it said there are weeks, perhaps months of investigation ahead before any report will be ready on the inquiry.

Hoover appeared before the President’s anti-riot commission Aug. 1 and said that on the basis of his knowledge of 52 riots in the past three years, he found no indications of a conspiracy. But he did say there were indications outside agitators were involved in some of these disturbances.

Not Concerned
David Ginsburg, executive director of the commission, said after the FBI chief’s appearance that the outside agitation was not something to which Hoover “gave a great deal of weight or with which he was greatly concerned.”

As the Senate investigators worked, word came Wednesday from Philadelphia of an alleged plot to start a race riot there this summer which, authorities said, involved a plan to poison hundreds of Philadelphia policemen.

Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter, announcing an arrest in the case, said the plot was the work of members of the Revolutionary Action Movement—RAM—a Negro extremist group. Specter said his own life and those of the mayor and police chief “were to be taken.”

Destroy Monuments
RAM members previously have been connected with a conspiracy to kill moderate Negro civil rights leaders and with a plan to blow up the Statue of Liberty and other American monuments.

Communications to be Expanded

Back-up Launched for Lani Bird

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Pacific 2, a new commercial switchboard satellite, orbited earth today en route to a permanent outpost high over the Pacific Ocean where it can expand communications links between the Far East, Hawaii and the U.S. mainland.

The Comsat Corp. craft, launched Wednesday night from Cape Kennedy into a near perfect path ranging from about 200 to 23,000 miles above the earth, is to fire an on-board motor Saturday on its seventh orbit to settle the spacecraft on station over the equator southeast of Hawaii.

The satellite is primarily double Comsat’s communications circuits spanning the Pacific, opening new channels for increased telephone and telegraph traffic.

Comsat officials said new channels provided by the craft also would improve chances for live World Series telecasts to baseball-conscious Japan, live coverage of an upcoming golf championship in Hawaii and more trans-Pacific telecasts of events such as U.N. sessions. Pacific 1 is also operating at virtual capacity, and officials said additional telephone and telegraph circuits are needed between Hawaii and the U.S. mainland, between the United States and Australia, Hawaii and the Philippines, and Japan and the U.S. mainland.

Surrender Real Control Over Federal Purse Strings, or Get No Tax Increase

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A closed-door meeting last Thursday of House Republican leaders all but decided on a strategy to confront President Johnson with a dreary choice: surrender real control over the Federal purse strings or get no tax increase.

Currently being perfected by outside economic advisers to the House Republicans, the scheme offers sour alternatives to Mr. Johnson. To win essential Republican support for his 10 per cent surtax on income, he must accept a guaranty written into the tax bill of substantial cuts — at least $5 billion — in current spending.

Nor will the Republicans be satisfied with any vague injunction against spending. They are now drafting an amendment to the tax bill flatly prohibiting the Treasury from spending above a certain level each quarter of the year, thereby reasserting Congressional control over Federal spending.

"Real Battle"

Herein lies the real Presidential-Congressional clash over fiscal policy, transcending the sham battle that has been waged inside the House Ways and Means Committee

Novak

Evans

In that committee's daily sessions behind closed doors, Administration officials — led by Budget Director Charles Schultze — stoutly maintain that Congress should increase taxes before the President cuts spending.

In private sessions with senior Ways and Means members, lieutenants of the President urge Congress to tell them specifically where spending should be reduced. In reply, Ways and Means members of both parties insist the spending cuts must be detailed by the Administration immediately.

But the impasse is more apparent than real. As we reported earlier, the President last June ordered all departments to show how each could cut current spending by 15 per cent and has had this information since mid-July. Moreover, it is highly probable that the President will issue a statement of reduced expenditures — perhaps as early as the end of this week, more likely a bit later.

Fiscal Gimmick

That total reduction is expected to be around $7 billion. Of that, $2 billion probably will consist of the Johnson administration's favorite fiscal gimmick: selling so-called participation certificates or Federal I.O.U.s, whose sale is credited as an asset in topsy-turvy Federal bookkeeping. The other $5 billion are expected to be actual reductions in expenditures, mainly consisting of postponable public works (including highway construction).

Republicans, however, are understandably leery of such pledges. Consider Mr. Johnson's highly-publicized promise last November to slash 1967 Federal expenditures by $3 billion. Of that $3 billion most has now been restored; the ultimate saving will be less than $300 million.

The scheme to prevent this from recurring came unsolicited from a respected private economist who fears — like many Republicans — the Administration would use higher taxes as a lever to actually increase spending. His suggestion to Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican Conference was to write spending limitations into the tax increase bill with the Treasury rigidly forbidden to exceed a set level of expenditures for each quarter of the year.

The scheme was advocated strongly at last Thursday's Republican meeting by Laird and Rep. John Byrnes, also of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the Ways and Means Committee. Some party leaders present asserted Republicans should fight higher taxes down to the wire and opposed the scheme. But House Republican leader, Gerald Ford of Michigan, previously considered a hard-line anti-tax man, was leaning to the Laird-Byrnes view (which was partially unveiled by Byrnes Monday before the American Banking Association in New York).

The difficulty of Mr. Johnson's position is compounded because his own Democratic Congressmen generally agree that reduced spending must accompany higher taxes. Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon, key Administration wheelhorse on Ways and Means, has taken this position. Chairman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas made an impassioned plea to Administration officials for reduced spending to conclude last Friday's closed-door session.

These Democrats frown on any scheme putting the Administration in a spending strait-

The unit will also be open from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Monday at Kimberly and then will travel to Kaukauna for an industrial center for employees of Badger Northland and Kaukauna Dairy from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Starting Wednesday, open centers will be held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars clubhouse. The schedule of hours here will be 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, 1 to 4 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. Thursday and 9 a.m. to noon Friday.

Oct. 9 the unit will be open from 1 to 4 p.m., Oct. 10 from 9 to noon and 1 to 4 p.m., Oct. 11, 1 to 4 and 6 to 9 p.m., Oct. 12, 10 to 1 p.m. and 3 to 6 p.m. and Oct. 13, 9 a.m. to noon.

Persons with diabetes, high blood pressure or who are under the care of a doctor for heart disease should not take part in that part of the testing. Residents over 20 should take part in the unit since the tests may reveal previously unsuspected problems, according to Mrs. Mary Yingling, city nurse.

Mrs. Genevieve Anderson is organizational chairman for the Kaukauna clinic and will be responsible for securing volunteers to assist with registration.

Black Creek Funeral for Crash Victims

Mrs. Vernon Bricko, Daughter Died in Slinger Accident

BLACK CREEK — Funeral services for the victims of a Tuesday traffic accident near Slinger have been scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday at Immanuel Lutheran Church here.

Mrs. Vernon H. Bricko, 24, rural Slinger but a native of Black Creek, and her daughter, Kerry Lynn, 4, died after the car in which they were riding collided with another vehicle 3 miles southeast of Slinger during a heavy rainstorm late Tuesday. The girl was killed outright and Mrs. Bricko died later at a hospital.

Mrs. Bricko, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gehrke, was born here Feb. 10, 1943. She attended schools here, Fox Valley Lutheran High School, Appleton, and Milwaukee Lutheran Teachers College, Milwaukee.

Survivors include her husband, her parents, two sisters and paternal and maternal grandparents.

Police Investigating Hit and Run Complaint

KIMBERLY — Police are investigating the complaint of Donald Opsteen, 220 S. Birch St., who reported his parked vehicle damaged by an unknown driver while it was parked in a lot off Kimberly Avenue about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The right rear of the Opsteen vehicle was damaged and police indicated, the car that struck him was blue in color.

Shawano Pupils Ask Donations for Gifts to Vietnam

SHAWANO — A teacher of citizenship classes at the junior high school is requesting support of his students' efforts to send more than 11,000 packages of pre-sweetened soft drink mixes to patients in hospitals in Vietnam.

The program, under the guidance of John F. Apker, is a follow-up of a similar one last spring when the group sent 5,851 packages of powdered drink mix, a scramble board and a school annual to the southeast Asia country.

"Our hope is to double the accomplishments of the first drive," Apker said, indicating there had also been requests that packages be sent to United Service Organizations (USO's).

Apker said that mixes, or money to be used for transportation costs or for purchasing more mixes, could be sent to him at Shawano Junior High School, Shawano, Wis., 54166.

Twins Eye Red Sox Series After Getting 'Help From Above'

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Cal Ermer admitted he was a man standing in the need of prayer.
A few hours later, his prayer was answered by the lowly Kansas City Athletics.
"What does the Bible say?" Ermer asked, then answered his own question. "My help cometh from above."
"We need some help now," Ermer said, analyzing the American League pennant race

WSU-0 Titans To Face Stout Unbeaten Superior Meets Eau Claire In Saturday Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Teams at opposite ends of the Wisconsin State University Conference football standings clash Saturday when Oshkosh invades Stout.
Oshkosh, winner of both loop starts, is in a three-way tie for the top spot while Stout shares the cellar with an 0-2 record.
In other conference action this weekend Superior, also 2-0 and somewhat of a surprise this season, travels to Eau Claire. 0-1; Stevens Point, 1-0, is at La Crosse, 1-1, and Whitewater, the defending champion, 1-1, plays host to Platteville, 0-2.
River Falls, 1-1, is idle.
One Victory
Superior finished the 1966 season with one victory in nine games after dropping all nine games the previous campaign.
The Yellowjackets beat Stout in the season opener 27-21 and followed with a 27-20 conquest of River Falls.
Oshkosh displayed a tight defense and a powerful ground attack in trimming Eau Claire 33-7 last week. The Titans held the losers to minus yardage in the first half and Miles Strasser and Brian Burbay racked up a pair of touchdowns each.
Stevens Point lost a 13-7 decision to Mankato in Minnesota last week in nonconference action. The Pointers had the advantage in yardage and first downs but were hit with three pass interceptions and a costly fumble.

Name Chance Top Athlete in August Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Dean Chance, who hurled two no-hitters last month for Minnesota, was named Wednesday as the winner of the August award in the Pro Athlete of the Year poll.
The right-handed star of the Twins received 58 first place votes and 223 points from a national panel of sports writers and sportscasters for a big margin over runner-up Jack Nicklaus.
Nicklaus, the wealthy golf pro, received 14 first place votes and 126 points. Baseball slugger Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox and Orlando Cepeda of the St. Louis Cardinals, tied for third with 73 points each.

Hawks Tangle With Central to the homecoming occasion and handed the Chuters a 26-3 setback, their worst defeat of the season. This started a string of three straight losses which knocked the Dutchmen completely out of contention.

Heavy Favorite
Premontre had an easy time of it a year ago, beating Lourdes, 29-0. The Cadets will go into Saturday's contest a heavy favorite since the Knights have lost two straight and have scored only one touchdown in two games.
Xavier is currently the leader in the conference, both on offense and defense. The Hawks have piled up 694 yards on offense with 523 coming via the ground. Premontre is second with 665 total yards and Marinette is third with 549.
Defensively, the Hawks have allowed only 167 yards to opponents, including 119 rushing and only 48 passing. St. John is second defensively with a 329 total allowed in two contests. Menasha St. Mary ranks third with 377.
Brad Graff, of Xavier, is the leading scorer in the conference with 31 points on four touchdowns, four extra points and one field goal. John Felix, of Marinette, ranks second with four TDs for 24 points.
Leading Rusher
Premontre's Tony Canado, Jr. is the leading rusher in the loop with 230 yards in 36 attempts and St. John's "Oscar" Schuler is second with 186 yards. Marinette has two of the top three pass receivers and quarterback Steve Matty ranks as the second best passer in the loop. Brian Bengston, of Premontre, has hit nine of 18 passes for a fantastic 272 yards in two games. Matty has 16 of 39 for 254 yards.

East-West to Open Chapter In Athletics

it could be. West has completed only 11 of 555 passes, while East has 12-for-38. The receivers of both teams have contributed to the low percentages by dropping a number of "on-the-button" aerials.
West has huffed and puffed its way to an average of $2.3 yards per game. The Terrors have given up an average of 278. Ade Dillon, Jr., has the only AHS-W touchdown of the season.
The Patriot attack has averaged 138.7 yards, while the defense has yielded 206. East wasted a number of gut-edged scoring chances against Preble, and Radtke says most of the "misses" can be traced to some individual who didn't carry out his assignment.
Patriot players didn't make the only mistakes in the Preble game. An official made a costly one, with a quick whistle. The official killed a Patriot interception, while the ball was bouncing in the air and still very much alive, and Tom Birk's trip to the end zone was nullified. Radtke said the films show the official putting his hands to his head in a "What have I done?" gesture — but the play was dead, and it was too late to do anything about it.
Dillon, Jr., will be at the controls for AHS-W. After missing the Oshkosh game because of an injury, he is regaining the form which enabled him to rush for more than 100 yards against Southwest. The main targets of his passes will probably be end Joel Hanna, Ron Pingel and halfback Tom Freude. Pat Burke and Don Hietpas are the back-up quarterbacks.
Grabs 6 Passes
Dick Miller, who had a productive night passing against Preble, will open at QB for East. His alternate is Bob Birkholz. Craig Rusch, the conference's No. 6 receiver (six for 85 yards) has been the main aerial target. Halfback Cliff Tierney caught a TD pass against Preble. He has scored East's only two touchdowns to date.
End Blane Reichelt, who has missed two games after being in an auto accident, will again be out of the East lineup. Halfback Bob Manwell, who missed the Preble game because of a foot injury, is on the doubtful list.
From the FRVC standpoint, this weekend's feature game matches Sheboygan North and Fond du Lac, on the Cards' field, Friday night. Both are title aspirants, with Fondy being unbeaten and North having lost only to Green Bay West — on the final play of the game.
Unbeaten GBW plays Friday at Oshkosh. Winless, and still scoreless, Manitowoc is at Southwest Friday, and Preble is at GBE the same night. GBW has the best offensive average (254 yards) and the best defensive mark (96.0).

Clay Back in Court Again

Former Champion Wants Termination Of Alimony Payment

CHICAGO (AP) — Cassius Clay, deposed world heavyweight boxing champion, applied in Circuit Court Wednesday for termination of all support payments to his former wife.
Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, his Black Muslim name, was married a second time Aug. 18, to Belinda Boyd, 17, also a Muslim sect member.
Clay's first wife, Sonji Ali, was divorced by the fighter last year on grounds she failed to keep a promise to observe Muslim customs.
Alimony of $1,250
A Miami court earlier this year awarded Sonji 27, a Chicago model, alimony of $1,250 for 10 years and one month.
Clay is facing a possible 5-year prison term for refusing to enter military service on grounds he is a Muslim minister. Most boxing groups stripped Clay of his heavyweight title.
An attorney representing Mrs. Ali argued that an Illinois court lacks authority to consider any alimony reduction. Clay's attorney stated the court has such jurisdiction because registration of "foreign deeds is legal in the state of Illinois".
Judge Harry A. Iseberg directed each lawyer to submit briefs before Oct. 16 at which time he will decide regarding his jurisdiction.

Duval Scored 4 TDs in Raider Win

Wisconsin Rapids Back Receives Prep Honor

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Steve Duval of Wisconsin Rapids, who scored four touchdowns and starred on defense in a 33-19 win over Antigo last Friday night, was named The Associated Press Wisconsin high school football "Player of the Week" today.

Duval, a 5-foot-10, 160-pound senior, was called on to help fill the void left in the Red Raiders' attack by the loss through injury of star halfback Bryan Buelow.

Buelow was forced to undergo knee surgery after being hurt in a loss to top-ranked Schofield. "Steve took over and did a job," commented Dale Rheel.

Wisconsin Rapids' athletic director.

Duval rushed 18 times for 153 yards, including a gain of 46 yards. He scored on runs of 11, 14, 6 and 23 yards and caught two passes for 37 yards. He personally accounted for 10 of the Raiders' 15 first downs.

While at defensive back, he recovered two fumbles and helped contain Antigo's sweeps.

Athletic Family
"He's a very determined lad," said Rheel. "He takes his athletics seriously. He has to be from a very athletic family."

Duval's brother, Tom, is the leading back at Wisconsin Rapids Assumption.

"He's not big but he makes full use of what he's got," said Bob Des Jarlais, sports editor of the Wisconsin Rapids Tribune.

Des Jarlais was one of several Wisconsin writers to nominate Duval for this week's honor.

Others nominated included Russ Lewandowski of Milwaukee Boys' Tech, John Wawronowski of Milwaukee Pulaski, Bob

Tigers' Pennant Chances Leap to Life

By BILL HALLS
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers' pennant chances, slimmer than Twigg's waistline 24 hours earlier, leaped back to life today as a rash of cataclysmic defeats by also-rans rocked the three other American League contenders.

Reds' Bristol, Hitchcock in Brief Scuffle

Both Managers Pass Incident Off As 'Baseball Tussle'

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Manager Dave Bristol scuffled briefly with Atlanta pilot Billy Hitchcock after Tuesday night's game, but they both seemed friendly toward each other Wednesday, sources reported.

Both managers were ejected from the game after they questioned a reversed call by home plate umpire Frank Dezelan and Bristol was perturbed.

"I was mad," Bristol said Wednesday night. "I told Hitchcock I didn't like what he did."

Bristol was referring to the fact he thought Hitchcock caused him to be kicked out of the game with both managers protested.

No Blows Struck

"We scuffled. I pushed him and he tried to get at me," the Reds' manager said. "Then a park policeman separated us. No blows were struck."

"I met Billy in the hotel lobby today and we passed the time of day. I hold no grudges," Bristol added.

Hitchcock gave practically the same version of the story as Bristol did.

"He grabbed me and then tried to get my arm around him and that's all there was to it," the Braves' skipper said.

"He was mad. He's hot-headed," Hitchcock said.

"We greeted each other today and that was it. It was one of those typical baseball tussles," he said.

Meanwhile, Cleveland beat Boston 6-0 and last-place Kansas City swept a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 5-2 and 4-0. The result left Detroit and Boston one game behind the league-leading Twins while Chicago fell 1 1/2 games off the pace.

Hold the Edge

But the Tigers and Twins, each with 69 defeats, held the edge over Chicago and Boston, each with 70 losses.

Manager Mayo Smith, off on some cosmic errand, was unavailable for comment, but has said several times this week that Detroit must sweep the Angels in order to win the team's first pennant in 22 years.

"There's no way the Tigers are going to sweep us. No way," said California Manager Bill Rigney, whose team took two straight from Boston.

"My guys are ready," Rigney added. "They feel it. They may have their likes and dislikes, who they want to see win this thing and who they want to see lose it, but when they get there they don't care who they're playing. They want to win, win, win."

Smith said he would start right-hander Joe Sparta tonight, with Earl Wilson pitching Friday and Mickey Lolich Saturday "if none of them falls off a sofa."

Right-hander Denny McLain dislocated two toes in his right foot last week when he said his leg fell asleep and gave out from under him as he arose from a chair. Earlier, slugger Eddie Mathews sprained his right thumb when he slipped on a rug in his Milwaukee home and fell down a flight of stairs.

There is some possibility that McLain, the fourth member of the Detroit starting rotation, may be able to pitch the final game of the season against the Angels Sunday but Smith says, "I'm not looking that far ahead."

Ninth Innings

Rigney, who plans to pitch left-hander Clyde Wright tonight, told a Detroit newsman that Detroit must sweep the Angels in order to win the team's first pennant in 22 years.

"Your guys — ooh, those ninth innings. I'll bet they wish they had a few of those back."

Detroit, which has split its last eight games, dropped three of them after taking leads into the ninth inning. The Tigers have appeared at the end of their rope several times, but each time losses by the other contenders have given them new life.

Rigney, warming to the challenge, termed the Detroit series "vital . . . it's crucial . . . it's a key series."

"Nervous?" Rigney said.

Ski Safety to Be Discussed at Mo-Ski-Tow Fete

NEW LONDON — Dr. Leonard Weiss, instructor at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Extension, Menasha, will discuss ski safety at the annual kick-off dinner of Mo-Ski-Tow Hill, Inc., at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Rainbow Supper Club.

Mo-Ski-Tow operates View Ridge Hill east of here off Outagamie County Trunk S. Dr. Weiss is area Red Cross Ski Patrol instructor. Registrations for the event are to be made no later than today by contacting George Kubisiak, president of the ski club.

Other features of the kick off dinner will be the display of the latest ski exercise device invented by Stein Ericson, and the showing of the movie "Mad Mod Skiing" made by Warren Miller, noted ski instructor.

Stanky agreed his club ran into some great pitching, adding "Those two have been great the past five weeks." They beat Stanky's aces—Gary Peters and Joe Horlen, who was seeking his 20th victory.

"I'll remember Kansas City a long time, I guess," Stanky said.

The Chicago Cubs, battling for a National League third place finish, meet the pennant-winning St. Louis Cardinals in Wrigley Field today. The game was rescheduled after rain washed out Wednesday's contest.

The pitching assignments will remain the same with the Cubs' Vergie Jenkins going for his 20th victory against a rotation of three St. Louis second-line hurlers — Larry Jaster, Jack Lamamabe and Ray Washburn.

"Don't let them kid you. They're all nervous. Every one of them. Emotion is part of this game — and you'd better have it."

Viking Cross Country Team Faces Carls

With another week of practice behind them, the Lawrence University cross country team takes on highly-regarded Carleton College Saturday at Northfield, Minn.

The Vikings are still looking for their first victory having lost a 19-36 decision to Coe in the opening meet last weekend.

The Vikes went into the Coe meet with only about five days of practice and minus two promising performers. Letterman Vern Wilmot had to miss the meet because of blood poisoning and sophomore stand-out Geoff Garrett had not joined the team until this week.

Coach Gene Davis is expecting Garrett to be ready for Saturday's meet and Wilmot is still on the doubtful list.

Carleton is the defending Midwest Conference champion in cross country and the Carls have a good nucleus of lettermen back.

Pistons Sign Former Bullets' Center

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association announced Wednesday they have signed Wayne Hightower to a one-year contract.

Hightower, acquired from the Baltimore Bullets last January, reportedly was signed for $14,000 a year. He had sought a three-year contract.

The 6-foot-9 Hightower was scheduled to join the Pistons in an exhibition game with Chicago Wednesday night in South Bend, Ind.

NOTES and NOTIONS

This has been a football season of surprises, but slowly, this corner is clawing its way back to forecasting respectability. Last week's 75 per cent (27 right, 9 wrong and 1 tie) brings the season percentage to .706 (60-25-4).

Packers over Falcons — This may be the week the Packer offense regains its exhibition-season momentum. In any case, it's comforting to have a brilliant defense and a rejuvenated Don Chandler to fall back on.

Wisconsin over Arizona State — The Badgers are another team with offensive troubles, but John Ryan may be able to supply the punch this week. If the Badgers don't show some ability to score against ASU, this looks as if it could be a long season.

Lawrence over Carleton — The Vikes showed lots of mettle and ability in their win over highly-resistant Coe, and the same characteristics should stand them in good stead against the aerial-minded Knights.

Appleton East over Appleton West — This historic first clash in the intra-city series should be close all the way. Both rebuilding teams have had trouble mounting sustained offenses, so the defensive units seem likely to be in command.

Xavier over Marinette — This could be a tough battle for the Hawks, since the Cavaliers' flamboyant offense gave them some anxious moments last season. But the Marinette defense doesn't figure to stop the free-wheeling Hawks often enough to win.

Racine Lutheran over Fox Lutheran — The Foxes will erupt in a flurry of points one of these weeks, but Racine, on the basis of its one-sided win last week, appears too tough.

Neeenah over Kaukauna — Two weeks ago this game would undoubtedly have been picked differently. Since then, the two clubs have gone in opposite directions, with the Rockets once again showing much of the power that made them unstoppable last year.

Kimberly over Two Rivers — The surprising Papermakers will stay undefeated as they continue to improve their offense to complement a sturdy defense.

Menasha over Shawano — The Jays' confidence received a needed boost last weekend, and they'll continue to click. However, it will take a top effort to beat a potentially-dangerous Indian team.

Clintonville over New London — Both teams will try to shake off a nightmare from last weekend, but the Clints have previously shown more power than the Bulldogs.

St. John over Pennings — The Chuters will stay unbeaten in the conference against a Squire team that has been unable to plug its porous defense.

St. Mary over Springs — The Zephyrs have too much of everything for the Ledgers.

Other NFL Games — Minnesota over Chicago, Cleveland over New Orleans, Detroit over St. Louis, Los Angeles over Dallas, Washington over New York, Philadelphia over Pittsburgh, Baltimore over San Francisco.

Other MC games — Beloit over Coe, Cornell over Grinnell, Ripon over Knox, St. Olaf over Monmouth.

Other FRVC games — Green Bay West over Oshkosh, Sheboygan over Fond du Lac, Preble over Green Bay East, Manitowoc over Green Bay Southwest.

Little Nine Conference — Brillion over Shiocton, Winneconne over Reedsville, Wrightstown over Hilbert, Freedom over Omro, Denmark over Hortonville.

Other games — Waupaca over Marion, Plymouth over Chilton, Bonduel over Oconto, Bay Port over Seymour, Premontre over Lourdes.

$5 Billion Paring Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has indirectly ordered its Appropriations Committee to present a $5 billion plan for presidential cutting of federal spending if it wants funds for government departments about to run out of money.

The move is the latest in a wrangle between President Johnson and Congress over taxes and spending.

Republicans and some Democrats say Johnson can't win an income tax increase unless he promises beforehand to cut spending.

The Appropriations Committee voted 28 to 21 Wednesday not to include in the temporary appropriations measure a provision directing the President to cut spending this year by at least $5 billion. Later in the day, the House voted 202 to 182 to return the temporary appropriations bill and have the committee reconsider its action.

Change Decision
The committee may meet again today but there was a question whether enough votes could be changed to alter its Wednesday decision. It could work out a compromise to break the deadlock but there was no assurance the Senate would accept a mandatory spending cut. The Senate already has turned down a House-voted provision to cut spending by 5 per cent in an earlier measure. On the vote to return the bill to committee, 168 Republicans and 34 Democrats were on the winning side, while 182 Democrats banded on the losing side in support of the administration. Eighteen Republicans and 31 Democrats did not vote.

Among the Democrats voting with the GOP was Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee. He has insisted that if Johnson is going to have his bill for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge, Congress must first be guaranteed there will be spending cuts. But Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the Appropriations Committee said this would amount to giving the President "a blank check" and "terrific, unheard of and unprecedented" power.

Mahon said control of the federal purse strings is the responsibility of Congress. "Should we yield our authority—just because we haven't done our job?" he asked.

The temporary appropriations bill, which would be routine under usual circumstances, would provide money through October for agencies whose current emergency financing expires Saturday.

These agencies' appropriations are included in 13 pending money bills for the fiscal year that started July 1. Since then they have been financially fed on a monthly basis by Congress. Only the Treasury, Interior, Defense and Post Office Departments and Congress itself have received full allotments for the entire fiscal year.

Although many agencies could thus be technically without operating funds starting Sunday, it doesn't mean they would have to close down.

There have been cases in the past where there were short periods of financial embarrassment but employees stayed on the job. Limited business was transacted on the theory the government's credit was good and the checks eventually would be forthcoming.

Warehouse in Tijuana

Source of Poison Traced

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) —

Authorities said today they traced a deadly insecticide blamed for Tijuana's mass poisoning to a warehouse from which bakery products were distributed.

Fifty bakeries were padlocked and posted with guards, and 35 persons linked to the supplier and bakeries were held for questioning. No charges were filed.

By the thousands Tijuana residents trooped across the U.S. border to San Ysidro, Calif., for bread.

Hector Valdivia, deputy district attorney, said the insecticide parathion was found stored in the warehouse near flour, sugar and possibly other ingredients used in foods. He refused to identify the warehouse.

Valdivia said, "Until we get test results from Sacramento, we won't know for sure what food or ingredient was poisoned."

In Sacramento, Calif., chemists of the California Department of Agriculture were examining samples of flour, bread and sugar flown from Tijuana.

Valdivia told a news conference Wednesday that 16 died from poisoning since Sunday. About 25 persons were hospitalized, and an estimated 300 others were released from hospitals and clinics after treatment.

Only two or three new cases of sickness were reported Wednesday, authorities said.

Short Circuit Blamed For Crash of Missile

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — White Sands spokesmen say that an electrical short circuit caused an Army Pershing missile to overshoot its target and crash in northern Mexico Sept. 12.

A spokesman said Wednesday the short circuit was discovered after the wreckage of the missile was recovered and studied. The missile was fired in Utah and was supposed to have impacted on this missile test center in southern New Mexico. It overshoot and efforts to destroy it in flight failed.

Counties Ask State Support For Centers

GREEN BAY — Total state financing of two-year state colleges and branch campuses was backed Tuesday by delegates to the Wisconsin County Boards Association convention.

This was the second year a resolution calling for a change in the method of financing was passed at the convention.

Both the Winnebago and Outagamie county boards also have gone on record favoring state financing of the two-year educational institutions.

The present method of financing of branch campuses calls for the county or municipality in which the center is located to construct the buildings and pay for the maintenance. The state provides the staff.

The counties want the state to pay the entire cost, as they do with the four-year state schools.

Winnebago and Outagamie counties jointly operate the Fox Valley Center of the University of Wisconsin and have indicated they may decline to provide any further funds for expansion of the center.

Stanford White's Palace for Anna Being Torn Down

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Wrecking balls are tearing down a lavish mansion built by Stanford White for actress Anna Held and later used as a "pleasure palace" by Sally Stanford, called San Francisco's mistress of many bagnios.

Miss Stanford, now a restaurateur, sighed Wednesday over the demolition and recalled her continuing battles with vice squad inspector John Dwyer. "I had a steel shield built around the gate lock to keep him out," she said.

One of the most impressive features of the place was an inner court of Pompeian proportions containing a massive fountain and huge, sunken marble bath.

The lot is now being cleared for a high-rise apartment house.

Romney Picks Queries On 'Nonpolitical' Trip

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) —

Near the wing of the chartered plane, the questions came fast. They were political and Michigan Gov. George Romney sidestepped each one.

What did he think of Republican Sen. Thurston B. Morton's statement that President Johnson had been brainwashed on Vietnam?

"This trip," answered Romney, "is as nonpolitical as you can make it."

What are your views on Vietnam?

That too, he said, was out of bounds.

Are you still considering running for the Republican presidential nomination?

"I am still taking a look at it," he grinned.

If Romney isn't getting in some campaigning between his studies of city problems, he is getting some good practice. In Romney, the Republicans have a man in motion.

Tday Romney goes from his southeastern Pennsylvania industrial city to Philadelphia, then to Boston. He closes his tour Saturday in Pittsburgh.

Conciliation Promised

Buddhist Militants Stage Giant Anti-Thieu Protest

SAIGON (AP) — One thousand militant Buddhists made their biggest antigovernment demonstration in more than a year today and, in a face-to-face confrontation with Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, gained a promise of conciliation.

Thieu told the monks and nuns massed in front of Independence Palace, where he has an office, that he would discuss the Buddhists' demands with their leaders. This was something of a retreat for Thieu, a Roman Catholic who had ignored previous Buddhist requests for a meeting.

The militant Buddhist minority has focused its complaints against South Vietnam's military rulers on a charter Thieu signed last July that recognizes a moderate faction as the country's official Buddhist church. Buddhist spokesmen also have protested the presence of U.S. soldiers in Vietnam.

Meeting Today

A meeting between Thieu and Thieu (Venerable) Tri Quang, the Buddhists' leader and a long-time government foe, was arranged for later in the day. Tri Quang and several aides waited in a park near the palace for Thieu to complete a meeting with his Cabinet. The other demonstrators dispersed.

Tri Quang said that if his conference with Thieu were satisfactory, he would tell the Buddhists that their argument with the government was over for the moment. Otherwise, he said, Buddhists would be in the streets again in 24 hours.

In Hue, South Vietnam's old imperial capital far to the north, police were reported to have prevented Buddhists and students from marching today. Hue has been a center of antigovernment sentiment.

Election Validation

The Saigon demonstration was among militant Buddhist activities planned to coincide with a meeting of the National Assembly Friday to validate the election this month in which Thieu was chosen president and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, vice president. One of the Buddhists' antigovernment charges is that the election was rigged.

The demonstration began when the monks and nuns marched silently several miles through Saigon's traffic-choked streets from Tri Quang's An Quang pagoda to the palace.

A spokesman for Thieu invited their leaders inside, but Tri Quang and his lieutenants refused unless all 1,000 Buddhists could enter. Then Thieu, accompanied by Ky, came out of the palace and made a speech in front of the gates.

Unify Buddhists

The Buddhists, in ranks of three, were stretched in a line for two long blocks, beginning about 30 feet from where Thieu spoke.

"I hope we can find a solution to get the Buddhists unified," Thieu said. "We will do anything in our power to see that the Buddhists get together."

Tri Quang then gave a reply. The exchange, during the first personal confrontation between Thieu and Tri Quang, was carried over loudspeakers so the demonstrators could hear.

Unlike demonstrations in the spring of 1966 in which the militant Buddhists tried to topple the Thieu-Ky government, today's march was without violence. Police made no attempt to stop it.

About 2,000 persons watched as the Buddhists remained in front of the palace under a hot sun for more than two hours.

Teddie Dies Despite Effort Of Best Friend

COVINA, Calif. (AP) — Ted-

die, the 10-year-old heroic dog revived by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation after suffering a heart attack Monday, is dead.

His master, Cliff McAdams, said Tuesday a pet hospital told him Teddie succumbed to uremic poisoning, the pain of which had caused the heart seizure.

McAdams, Sunday magazine and travel editor of the San Gabriel Valley Tribune, applied heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation when Teddie showed signs of death. The dog regained consciousness.

McAdams and his sister Mary took Teddie to the Hollywood Pet Cemetery, where attendants buried the friend who saved the family's lives four years ago by barking when leaking gas filled their home during the night.

Guys and Dolls Fashions Ready to Go

KAUKAUNA — The many fall activities that put color in the autumn scene will be carried over into the 6:30 p.m. fashion show planned by the Grace Circle of The King's Daughters Oct. 7 at the Kaukauna Elks Club. Men and women will model in the annual 'Guys and Dolls' program, with fashions through the courtesy of Wohlford's Fashion Corner, Appleton, and S. J. Berens Clothing Store, Appleton.

Proceeds of the cocktail hour program will be used to purchase a television set for Riverview Hospital and Sanatorium, in Kaukauna.

Modeling at the program will be Mrs. Harvey Alger, Mrs. Frank Hertz, Mrs. Gary Lunda, Mrs. Albert Mengarelli, Mrs. Lee Schmalz and Miss Karen Kortz. Men who will model are Robert Knapp, Joseph Walsh, Julian Bichler, Daniel Schommer, Lester Forde, Kenneth Vander Velden, Lloyd Landow and Calvin Spice.

Committee Chairmen

The program is an annual fund raising event for the circle, which supports a number of charitable enterprises in Kaukauna. Serving as general chairman this year is Mrs. Kenneth Pawlak. Mrs. Jerome Kroll and Mrs. Donald Mangold have charge of women models and Mrs. Robert Pfister and Mrs. George E. Greenwood, men models.

Mrs. Lyle Vandenberg and Mrs. Eugene VandenHeuvel have charge of tickets; Mrs. Bernard Hupperts and Mrs. Joseph Steger, programs; Mrs. David Grunwaldt, refreshments and music; Mrs. John Noonan, assisted by Mrs. Irving Curry, Mrs. Steger, Mrs. Robert Franz, Mrs. Donald Green and Mrs. Walter Wierhuller, decorations; Mrs. Pawlak, prizes; Mrs. Dallas Werner, staging, and Mrs. Henry Dreschler, publicity.

Mrs. Kenneth Roloff will narrate the show.

A Day at a Packer game might include a variety of fashions. The trio above is ready for the great spectator sport. Modeling what to wear during the contest are Lloyd Landeau, Miss Karen Kortz and Mrs. Lee Schmalz. Mr. Landeau goes for the rugged sweater, a rib knit in horizontal stripes. Miss Kortz is ready for the game and dinner afterwards, in a casual dress simply styled with gold buttons to create a double-breasted effect. Mrs. Schmalz will be comfortable in a casual ensemble that includes slacks, a jacket and color-keyed blouse.

Promote Health Services

Auxiliary Officers at Careers Workshop

Mrs. Harold Podzilni and Mrs. Dexter Wolfe attended the "Health Careers Workshop" Thursday sponsored by the Wisconsin Hospital Association Auxiliary at the Milwaukee Inn, Milwaukee. Mrs. Podzilni is president and Mrs. Wolfe, president-elect of Appleton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Dr. George Handy, assistant state health officer, was the main speaker, stressing the openings available in health careers, the demands for manpower in these fields, and the effort that must be made to meet these demands.

Speakers Bureau

Hospital auxiliaries were urged to promote health careers by pointing out the basic qualifications and need in this area.

Appleton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has made tentative plans for a Health Careers Program Committee which will set up a speakers bureau composed of those in the auxiliary and those now engaged in health careers. Such speakers would be available to any group wishing career information. The committee will also take on the responsibility of disseminating to individuals literature presently available.

The speaker noted that health careers are foreseen as the third largest industry in the U. S., with an estimated 60 per cent of all future employment. Included among such careers are doctors, dentists, nurses, dental hygienists, medical technicians and secretaries, pharmacists, radiologists and physical therapists.

ing guests were Larry Huben and Joseph Groshek. The new Mrs. Groshek is a graduate of Milwaukee College of Beauty Culture, Milwaukee. Her husband is employed by Allen-Bradley Company, Milwaukee.

After a trip through the western states, the couple will reside at 2920 E. Van Norman Avenue, Milwaukee.

care will prevent the skin problems that trouble so many teenagers.

The Answer: Eruptions in teen skin are triggered by glandular changes. Nothing yet discovered or developed is a sure preventative for troubled skin. However, there is evidence that proper care during the pre-teen and teen years lessens the severity of facial blemishes when they do occur.

The first hope for untroubled skin is scrupulous cleanliness. This means oceans of mild soap suds and water, applied with the gentlest touch. The best way to lather up is with the fingertips. Effective rinses come from cupping the hands and splashing on cool water until the fingers drag, rather than slip, on the skin. Thereafter the face should

Infant Welfare Working on Conclave Plans

Members of the Infant Welfare Circle of King's Daughters discussed plans for the 50th annual state convention set Oct. 17 at Butte des Morts Golf Club. The group met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Henry G. Boon. Infant Welfare will be the hostess circle of the event. Co-Chairmen are Mrs. William E. Buchanan and Mrs. Henry W. Bailey.

Dec. 16 was announced as the date of the annual Charity Ball, to be held at North Shore Golf Club. Co-chairmen of the event are Mrs. Darwin Smith and Mrs. Charles De Zemler Jr.

A report from the dental clinic sponsored by the circle indicated that during the past school year 67 children received treatment there.

"New Dimensions" were explored by delegates to the International Toastmistress Clubs Council Four, Land O' Lakes Region, meeting at the YMCA. Business sessions and speakers highlighted Saturday's program. At left, at the coffee hour during morning registration, Mrs. Richard Dratz, seated, serves Mrs. Milan Horvate, Hales Corners, and Miss Marion Geurts, Green Bay, as the guests are welcomed by Appleton Toastmistress president, Miss Clarice Stake. At right, talking over the program, are Mrs. Warren Mend, Waukesha, council first vice president; Mrs. Lloyd Tegge, Waukesha, Council chairman, and Mrs. Clifford Braeger, Appleton, Council secretary. Below are Mrs. Donna Londre, general chairman of the meeting; Miss Virginia Clasen, Greater Milwaukee Club; Mrs. Louis Van-evenhoven, Appleton Club, and Mrs. George Hrubecy of the Nee-Sha Club.

Garden Federation Installs Officers

DELEVAN — Mrs. Cathryn Turner, LaCrosse, was installed vice in the Wisconsin Garden Club Federation Wednesday at the state garden club convention at Lake Lawn Lodge.

Other new officers are Mrs. Percy Newman, Sturgeon Bay, first vice president; Mrs. Paul Marquardt, Manitowoc, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Emerson, Spooner, third vice president; Mrs. Fred Scheonecker, Sussex, recording secretary; Mrs. Albert Shedesky, LaCrosse, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Calmer Browy, Madison, treasurer, and Mrs. Flavian Leinfelder, LaCrosse, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Turner chose as her theme, "Beauty Through Vision."

Achievement Honor

The Lydia Shafer Memorial Award was presented to Mrs. Harry Bostock, Madison, for distinctive achievement and service in the Wisconsin Federation.

Recipient of the Bronze Medal, given to a non-member in recognition of unusual work in horticulture, conservation, roadside or civic beautification or any related subject sponsored by the Federation, was John E. Voight, Milwaukee. Mr. Voight is director of Whitnall Park Boerner Botanical Gardens.

The Ivy League Garden Club, Sheboygan, was recipient of the Ruth West Monetary Horticulture Award for the club having the most outstanding horticulture program.

Creative Award

The award for Special Achievement for outstanding contribution to horticulture through creative horticulture was presented to Mrs. John D. West, Manitowoc, and Mrs. John Kohler, Sheboygan.

The Appleton Y Garden Club was given third place honors for its flower show in the division of clubs with 21 to 30 membership.

The Town and Country Garden Club, Sheboygan, took first place honors for its Home and Garden Show.

Abe Fortas in New Role of Talent Scout

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I'm Abe Fortas, a violinist," the Supreme Court Justice said in the spotlight of the White House East Room before presidential guests Tuesday night.

As laughter arose, Justice Fortas quickly added: "President and Mrs. Johnson are not permitting Abe to play tonight."

He explained he was appearing as the master of ceremonies for "my dear friends, two great artists,"—and he introduced 26-year-old concert violinist Jamie Laredo and his wife, Ruth, who accompanies him on the piano.

Fortas, a longtime friend of the Johnsons and an amateur but devoted musician, served as talent scout for the White House in presenting the young concert artists.

The two young artists said they had played with Fortas. When a reporter asked Mrs. Laredo how Justice Fortas was as a violinist, she said with a laugh: "He plays judiciously."

Parents Upset by Youngster's Repetition of 'Gutter' Words

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can a mother do when her pre-teen children repeat dirty words they hear from the neighbor's kids? Our four-year-old has come home and said some words my husband never learned till he got into the Merchant Marines.

We have washed out the boy's mouth with soap, deprived him of dessert and told him he couldn't watch the Saturday TV cartoons if he continued to talk nastily, but nothing helps. When he drops one dirty word, he picks up another. He doesn't know what the words mean and when he asks why they are bad we don't know what to tell him. Please don't suggest that we keep him away from the neighbor's children. It is impossible

Thanks for any help you can give us. — Trying to Raise 'Em Right

Landers

Dear Trying: There is no way to prevent children from hearing undesirable language from other children. By the time a youngster gets into the 5th grade he will have heard every dirty word there is. Tell your child certain words are not to be used because they are gutter words. Be emphatic, but don't make such an issue of it that he will use the words as an attention-getting device.

When a child asks what certain words mean he should be told — and make sure that the acceptable words are substituted for the gutter words. In that way he will learn to express himself properly.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Now and then you print letters from people who have complaints connected with their jobs. I hope you will help me out by printing my letter. You will also be helping out hundreds of other "bag boys" who carry groceries to people's cars.

Every day I walk an extra 10 miles at least — up and down the parking lot, my arms loaded with canned goods, because so many goofs can't remember where they parked their cars. Women are the worst. If they would just pay a little attention it would help us a whole lot. Please tell them — Flat Feet

Dear Feet: It would also help if the parking lots had some markers. A few posts with numbers or letters would do a world of good. How about it, grocers of America?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two months ago a couple our age moved in next door. We had a lot in common — bowling, swimming, playing cards and yard work.

Three weeks ago Mrs. Neighbor telephoned to say her husband left town on business and all her lights were out. She said, "I guess it must be a fuse but I don't know which one it is or what to do about it. Can you send Dick over?"

Dick went over and in five minutes the lights were on, but he stayed for two hours.

Since that evening Dick and Mrs. Neighbor have been looking cow-eyed at each other. He runs to light her cigarette (I have to light my own). When we went out together last night Dick helped her into the car. I almost fell and broke my neck.

Please don't tell me to avoid them because it's impossible. We have the same friends and everywhere we go, they are invited. What's the answer? — Green Eyes

Dear Eyes: In the absence of better evidence than you now have, play it cool — no accusations, no threats, no scenes. The nicer you behave the better your chances to prevent real trouble. If you become openly accusatory, you'll shove Dick right into her understanding and comforting arms.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (Copyright, 1967)

Student Council Tells Post-Game Dance Plans

Appleton High School-West's Student Council will sponsor its first dance of the year Saturday evening in the school gym. The event, to be called the 'Fifth Quarter', is planned for students of both West and East High schools after the football teams meet for the first time in the afternoon. The dance is planned from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

The party is planned to give students who were in the same school last year the chance to get together again. Only Patriots and Terrors will be admitted to the event.

'Halcyon Days Of Youth' Told

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Edison, the former governor of New Jersey and Secretary of the Navy, discloses in a privately published book that he was once a Greenwich Village poet. Edison, 77, the son of inventor Thomas Alva Edison, said he wrote his poetry under the pen name Tom Sleeper. The verse is published in the book entitled "Lotsam and Jetsam."

He arrived on the village scene in 1914. Recalling those days he said "Perhaps we helped to start the night-time visits of the uptown crowd to the village in search of Bohemian life."

He said he opened a 100-seat hall, the Thimble Theater, in a Village building his family owned to provide an audience for many of the impoverished musicians and singers he knew. "We succeeded in getting the limousine crowd to come from uptown to hear our talented unknowns," he said in a New York Times interview.

Edison later served as secretary of the navy in 1939-40 and governor of New Jersey from 1941 to 1944.

Lynda, Robb Leave Mexico

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Their Mexican holiday spoiled by rains, Lynda Bird Johnson and her dark-haired fiancé were believed visiting at LBJ Ranch near here today.

She and Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, who reportedly had been guests at the Acapulco home of American Airlines Vice President Warren Woodward of Dallas, made no comment on their plans as they left San Antonio toward Johnson City.

Miss Johnson and Robb left Saturday on what was intended as a six-day stay in the resort city but almost continuous rains kept them indoors there.

Foil Will Fill Pits in Aluminum

Q: My aluminum door frame has become soiled and pitted. While a cleaner takes off the dirt, it doesn't help the pitting. Can you suggest anything?

A: Tightly wad aluminum foil into baseball size. Rub this over the door. Not only will it do a pretty fair cleaning job, but it will fill the pit holes with small scraps of aluminum. Lasts pretty well, too. If your car's bumper is a little the worse for wear, try this.

Q: We're not happy with the location of the clothesline posts in our new home's back yard. My husband dug down two feet but still didn't reach bottom of the concrete. How can we move them?

A: Borrow or rent an electric hammer and chip the tops of the concrete post-holders down 2 or 3 inches. Cut off the posts as low as you can. Cover the holes with turf or earth.

Q: My kitchen cabinets are oak, and the finish badly worn. Can I sand them, and put on shellac or varnish? If not, what should I use?

A: Put on the shellac as the primer-sealer coat, followed by two or three thin coats of top quality clear varnish. Allow ample time for drying between coats.

Q: We are moving to a new home with a beautiful fireplace of creamy white brick. But the front is badly smoke-stained. How can I remove this?

A: Scrub with hot water and an old-time mechanic's hand cleaner which contains sand. Available at any auto supply store, many garages.

Q: My tenants on the floor below complain about my squeaky living room and kitchen floors. I really can't blame them. But what can I do? I have expensive tiles on these rooms.

A: Looks like a choice of losing your tenants or your tiles. Sorry, but I know no way to re-nail the loose flooring firmly to the subflooring and beams without taking up the tiles.

Successful Barmaid Must Have Special Personality

By SHARON McEACHERN WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Darkness prevails. Cigarette smoke fills the air. In one corner, a jukebox blares. Elsewhere, an ashtray clatters to the floor. Glasses clink against each other as they're placed before silhouetted figures.

It's all part of the night life and the action at the local beer lounge or private club ... or a job for the numerous women who make a living as barmaids.

"You can come in here for five minutes, any night, and you'll see and hear the same thing," says an attractive 24-year-old divorcee with two young children to support.

"You know, when you work in a bar you can't help getting in a rut. It gets so loud, you have a splitting headache by the time you quit. But listen, I'm not griping. The pay makes it all worth it."

Exceptional Pay

The pay is exceptional, sometimes far more than that of a secretary, beautician or sales clerk. Anywhere from $25 to $50 in nightly tips is not unusual.

Often times, money is the only reason a woman works as a barmaid. Many of the women working in Wichita bars are divorced and must support themselves and their children.

"Where else could I make as much money? asked one barmaid. "There have been some weeks I took home as much as $250. But usually it averages around $125 to $150—and that's take-home pay, after taxes."

The subject of taxes did not evoke divided opinion among barmaids recently interviewed.

Salary Taxed

"Sure we're supposed to report all our tips. But I don't think it's fair when the government already takes out taxes from our regular salary.

"If I get $50 in tips, am I supposed to say to the government, 'Here take what you want and give me what's left over?' I can't see why we should give it away in taxes," says one barmaid.

When specifically asked if they withheld reporting their tips for income tax purposes, the answer was usually, "Well, would you?"

It takes a special kind of personality to be a successful barmaid. According to a local club owner, "She has to be half mother and half father. People will sit here and tell her their problems and repeat many a sob story."

Tact Required

A good "listening ear" isn't the only important quality. Friendly tact and a sense of humor and know how to handle all kinds of people," emphasized a 21-year-old.

"Every night someone will ask you out for a date that you have no intention of accepting. All you have to do is joke with them, and let them know in a nice way that you are not interested.

"I have two pat answers. I say: 'Oh sure, I'll meet you under the bridge at midnight' or 'as soon as you can afford me—I need a Sugar Daddy.' It really presents no serious problems"

Derogatory Attitude

One problem that does cause concern are the derogatory opinions many outsiders hold about women who work in bars. Most of the barmaids have adopted an "I couldn't care less" attitude concerning public opinion.

However, one local waitress

Falsecard Confuses Defender

When you have the ace of dummy's long suit you should usually refuse the first trick or two in that suit. You aim to take your ace precisely when declarer plays his last card in dummy's long suit.

East won the first trick with the king of spades and fired back a spade to remove dummy's ace. Now South couldn't be sure of getting enough club tricks.

In this position East must rely on his partner to tell him when to take the ace of clubs. An expert West plays his lowest club first to show an odd number of cards in the suit; West starts a high-low if he has an even number of clubs. This information tells East how many clubs declarer holds.

All very well if South sits still. In this case, however, South dropped the six of clubs when he led a high club from dummy at the third trick.

Misses Deuce

East wisely refused the first club, and West wisely played the three, his lowest club. Unfortunately, East couldn't tell who king. When the jack dropped, South led a third diamond to drive out the queen.

Now South was sure of two spades, two hearts, three diamonds and two clubs. If East had taken the second round of clubs, declarer would have made only one club trick and would have gone down one instead of winning the game and rubber.

Daily Question

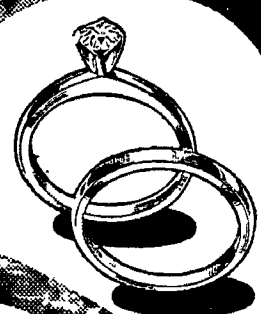

You are third hand, after two passes, holding: S-K 4 2 H-Q-10 8 6 5 D-J 5 C-A 9 8. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You would bid one heart if your suit were headed by Q-J-10 instead of Q-10-8 since then you would want to encourage a heart opening lead. Do not make a shaded third-hand opening bid when you have a poor suit as well as a poor hand.

Knowles Claims Racial Trouble Not Isolated

GREEN BAY — The racial strife in Milwaukee cannot be isolated from the rest of the state, Gov. Warren P. Knowles told delegates to the annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of Counties here Tuesday.

"You cannot sit smugly in a county away from Milwaukee and think you are not going to feel the problem," he said.

Departing from his prepared text, the governor stressed that the Milwaukee situation was a problem concerning everyone in the state which must be solved.

"You cannot sweep it under the rug," he stated. "These people (the Negroes) are human beings, too."

"The color of their skin is no reason to cross them off," he said. "The problem is one of absorption into society."

Positive Goal

The governor said he also believed that the Negro must work toward a positive goal and that "marching is not the answer."

"However," he said, "the problem will not be solved unless we work together."

"And, unless we do," he continued, "it will affect you-much more in the future than it does today."

He called his tour of the inner-core of Milwaukee an "eye-opener."

The solution, he felt, was in providing an equality of opportunity which could not be legislated but must be extended by society.

SHOULD WE ENCOURAGE PEOPLE TO BE DIFFERENT? YES ☐ NO ☐

No. Some people have become greatly worried lest we should become all alike, and have felt that we should combat non-conformity. But the man who is different just to be different is not independent. He is probably just a fool, and foolishness ought not to be encouraged. Actually we need not worry. People are not all alike, and we could never make them all alike even if we tried. We should encourage people to develop themselves in the best ways, rather than merely to be different.

Can you recapture romance in your marriage?

Assemble Leaf and Twig People With Any Type Glue

BY CAPPY DICK

Funny characters made of leaves and twigs afford an amusing way to increase your knowledge of nature as represented by tree leaves. Each "leaf man" is made from a different kind of leaf and the type of leaf should be identified.

Assemble With Glue

The leaves may be real ones that have first been pressed under a weight to make them flat, or they may be cut from green construction paper. In the latter case, use pictures you can find in reference books as patterns for your drawings.

You will also need a supply of thin twigs gathered from the ground or from dead branches of trees and shrubs. Glue will be required, too.

With a felt-tipped marking pen, draw a funny face on each leaf. Glue the leaf to a piece of construction paper. Then glue

Credit Union Robbed at AMC

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Four young men, at least two of them armed, robbed the American Motors Corp. credit union of nearly $7,000 Tuesday, but missed between $5,000 and $10,000 that was in a locked compartment of a safe.

A cashier said the men, all Negroes and about 20 years old, entered the office, jumped over a counter and ordered four women employees to remain seated at their desks.

Two held guns to the heads of two employees while the others ransacked the office, the cashier said.

The youths fled on foot.

Legislators Disagree On Stamp for Disney

WASHINGTON (AP) — The post office will issue a commemorative stamp next year in honor of Walt Disney but there's a question whether it will be issued first in California or Missouri.

Rep. Ed Reinecke, R-Calif., thinks it should first be issued in Burbank, Calif., where Disney had his movie-television studios. But Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., contends the first-day ceremonies should be in Marceline, Mo., where Disney spent his childhood.

Disney died Dec. 15, 1966.

twigs in place to form the body of the leaf man. Print the identity of the leaf on the paper.

Make as many pictures as there are different types of leaves in your neighborhood. Glue the twigs so each leaf man is in a different position — running, walking, jumping, etc.

Attach the pictures to a long strip of cardboard and hang it up for display.

Fighting Wars Not Duty of U.S. Congress

Used 137 Times Without Declaration

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has been denounced in and out of Congress for using the Gulf of Tonkin resolution to justify America's deepening involvement in the war in Vietnam. But history is on his side.

He has congressional blessing for doing what other presidents have done, some with, some without, such approval. There have been only five declared wars in American history but six undeclared ones.

Altogether the armed forces have been used 137 times without a formal war declaration and in most cases without any say by Congress. In some actions, presidents at first had hearty public and congressional endorsement. Later, when enthusiasm cooled, they were attacked or politically ruined.

Tonkin Resolution

On Aug. 7, 1964 Congress overwhelmingly passed the Gulf of Tonkin resolution when Johnson requested it after North Vietnamese torpedo boats attacked U.S. destroyers in the gulf.

It said Johnson, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, could take all necessary steps to repel any armed attack on those forces and "to prevent any further aggression."

While the Constitution says the president is commander-in-chief, it also says Congress alone can declare war. It doesn't say who can use the armed forces without a declaration.

But presidents all the way back to George Washington thought they could do so when they felt they should. It became a custom, not always followed, to ask Congress for approval or authorization.

These were five declared wars: 1812—war with England; 1846—Mexican War; 1898—Spanish American War; 1917—World War I; 1941—World War II. Three of them might have been avoided.

Two days before Congress declared war in 1812 England had yielded to American demands but Congress didn't know it—there were no transatlantic cables or telephones.

In 1898 Spain yielded to American demands two days before President William McKinley sent his war message to Congress. He was informed of it but went ahead because he was weak and yielded to the country's war fever.

And President James K. Polk baited the Mexicans into war in 1846 by sending troops into territory claimed by Mexico. He wanted California from them and, as a result of the war, got it.

Here are the six undeclared wars: 1798-1800—naval war with France; 1801-1805—war with Tripoli pirates; 1815—brief war with Barbary pirates; 1916-1917—war with Mexico; 1950-53—Korean war; and now the Vietnamese war.

Approved War

In 1798 Congress approved the naval war, authorizing U.S. ships to seize French vessels which had been preying on American shipping. Sentiment for this boiled when it was learned the French foreign minister, Talleyrand, asked for a $250,000 bribe. Later the public mood changed and helped wreck President John Adams politically.

Presidents Adams and Washington had already paid almost $2 million in blackmail to North African pirates not to pick on American ships and to release American captives. But Tripoli got greedy and rough. Congress authorized action. It did the same against the Barbary pirates in 1815.

When Pancho Villa, a Mexican rebel, massacred Americans on both sides of the border, there was great American indignation and demand for action. President Woodrow Wilson sent almost 6,000 men into Mexico with Congress' okay. The mood changed to wanting out as full war with the Mexican government got closer. Wilson was glad to pull out.

President Harry S. Truman neither asked nor got congressional approval for going into the Korean War. But the United Nations, of which the United States was a member, asked quick action. At first he got big backing. This turned to harsh criticism as the war dragged on.

Johnson neither asked nor got congressional approval for sending troops into the Dominican Republic because, he said, it was necessary to protect American lives and prevent a Communist takeover. But this kind of action was an old story.

Nor did President John F. Kennedy in 1962 ask congressional endorsement when, in his showdown with Moscow, he forced the Soviet Union to take her missiles out of Cuba.

Neighbors Unfold Pathetic Drama Of Frail Woman With Shopping Bag

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The pathetic story of the frail-looking, old woman, with the black shopping bag, began unfolding today in the 300 block of N. Division Street.

Neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt related how only their curiosity had been aroused Sunday.

But things were different today.

They told of sighting 80-year-old Marie Schmidt — clutching the floral print shopping bag with the wooden handle — as she made repeated trips to and from her home at 319 N. Division St. during the day Sunday.

Neighbors wonder

"We wondered where Mrs. Schmidt was doing all that shopping," commented Joseph Portmann, 403 N. Division St.

Portmann, who works at Foremost Dairies, said he and his wife saw the grey-haired woman attired in an ankle-length dress, make at least three trips in a northerly direction on Division Street.

"I saw Mrs. Schmidt leaving the house a couple of times with that shopping bag at her side," Portmann said. "Later in the day my wife noticed her again."

Others residing in the block, who described the elderly woman as "always acting somewhat odd and not neighborly," also recalled Mrs. Schmidt appeared to be unusually active Sunday and Monday.

The last time they saw Schmidt, a retired contractor, outside, was about two weeks ago. He appeared to be ailing and had difficulty walking in the back yard.

Godfrey Belair and his wife, who resided at 319½ N. Division St., rented the upstairs apartment from the Schmidts.

Wife Shook

"My wife was really shook up when I got home from work last night and saw police all around the place," remarked Belair, who said they lived above the Schmidts for the past three years.

"They were odd people, but we got along with them as well as expected," Belair said.

"I know more than what I can tell you," Belair added, explaining apologetically that police told him to make no statements.

Belair said he last saw Schmidt two weeks ago Sunday when he had to go to the basement to shut off the water because he was repairing some faucets in the upstairs apartment.

"Schmidt looked bad," Belair commented, "his health had been gradually failing over the past year or so."

Belair told of hearing strange sounds emanating last week from the Schmidt apartment below and thought the 84-year-old man may have slipped and fell on the floor.

"One thing I can say — we are sure glad this is all over with and they have found her and someone else is not running around loose," Belair said.

Remain Upstairs

A carpenter, Belair has been working on the Treasure Island store addition, but didn't go to work today. "I didn't get a wink of sleep last night and neither did my wife," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Belair remained upstairs during the search through the early hours of the morning and were still there at 11 a.m. as a steady flow of traffic converged on the area, along with hundreds of curious on foot.

Louie Saglauer, 327 N. Division St., a retired Riverside Paper Co., employee, said he used to talk to Schmidt "years ago but in the past 10 years he didn't say much to anybody."

Saglauer, who lives just north of the Schmidt residence, said although Mrs. Schmidt appeared to be frail, at one time she had been a strong-looking woman.

He, too, saw Mrs. Schmidt take walks Sunday with the shopping bag but thought nothing of it.

Dug in Garden

Saglauer and other neighbors said Mrs. Schmidt spent a lot of time in the back yard and her garden. "She was there digging most of the day Monday," Saglauer said.

Another neighbor, Mrs. Larry Behrnt, 419 N. Division St., said she knew Mrs. Schmidt had been in and out of her house quite a few times since Sunday.

"I know she was taking in her paper because my boy is her carrier boy," Mrs. Behrnt said.

Jim Behrnt, age 15, told his mother the paper was gone every day when he made his deliveries.

"He usually takes note when people leave papers on the porch when they go away," Mrs. Behrnt said.

Mrs. Verna Price, 505 N. Division St., a widow, was standing next to the Saglauer residence with friends. Looking over at the Schmidt house, she remarked, "Who would think anything like this would ever happen in Appleton?"

"It goes to show that anything can happen anywhere today," reflected an unidentified housewife, who said all the people in the neighborhood were relieved.

"Now we can let our young children play outside again," she commented.

All the neighbors said Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt never had Division St. Police started the search for parts of a body after first obtaining a search warrant late Wednesday night. The finding early today brings to an end an intensive search that began with the discovery of four packages of human flesh near a school Monday. Small washtubs, below, filled with pieces of the body, wrapped in paper, dot the brushy "graveyard." Fifteen policemen with shovels unearthed 12 bags of body parts. Schmidts wife was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital after an apparent suicide attempt today. (Post - Crescent Photos by Ralph Acker)

Appleton Street 'Stubbornness' of Paving Project Is Applauded

Plaque Cites Millionth Yard of Concrete Poured

The one-millionth square yard of concrete street was poured in Appleton Wednesday afternoon, and a bronze plaque placed in it to commemorate the historical milestone.

During the daylight ceremony on East John Street in front of the new high school and at night at a testimonial banquet at the Conway Motor Hotel, the Portland Cement Association congratulated the City of Appleton.

The million square yards of concrete is equivalent to 50 miles of street or 600 blocks.

The College Avenue reconstruction project was also cited by the association as "an outstanding example of the city's progress" with emphasis on its concrete streets.

Mayor George Buckley and George McCord, Milwaukee, district engineer for Portland Cement Association, presided at the John Street ceremony and sank the bronze plaque into the fresh concrete where it will become a permanent landmark.

Millionth Yard

The one-millionth yard of concrete marked completion of the John Street paving project by the Schutte Construction Co. of Manitowish.

A handful of aldermen and city department heads were on hand for the brief ceremony.

At night activity shifted to the Conway where attorney Patrick Coughlin, representing the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, served as master of ceremonies at a reception for public officials and civic leaders.

Several awards were presented to the City of Appleton in recognition of its many miles of concrete streets and the suc-

'Stubbornness' of McNamara Hit

Wisconsin Congressmen Charge Disregard of Legislative Decision

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — If several Wisconsin members of the House of Representatives had their way, the middle initial "S" in the name of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara would stand for "Stubborn."

Usually mild-mannered Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, has now followed the lead of other members of the delegation, calling McNamara "stubborn" in no uncertain terms.

The immediate reason for Byrnes' sudden discovery of the defense secretary's lack of flexibility was the secretary's attitude toward the Wisconsin lawmaker's amendment to the defense appropriations bill which would prohibit seven new types of minesweepers from being constructed in foreign lands.

"Much of the long, bitter struggle for my amendment, which led to misunderstanding in Britain and the U. S., might have been avoided if more common sense and less stubbornness had been used by the Secretary of Defense," Byrnes explained.

"I suggested this spring that he break the minesweeper procurement into two parts; and procure eight in this country and eight abroad," said Byrnes. "But McNamara turned this down."

Unwilling to Listen

"The Secretary's unwillingness to listen to reason forced Congress to express itself in no uncertain terms against the high handed methods McNamara used to disregard the congressional decision of where Navy ships should be built," the congressman snapped.

Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, R-Mercer, member of the House

Armed Services committee, has been calling McNamara "stubborn" almost since the Secretary took office.

O'Konski's latest blast on McNamara came during the 89th Conference of National Guard Associations of the United States held here.

"If McNamara had his way, the famed Wisconsin 32nd Division would be dissolved as a division, and some of its men would be transferred to units in Minnesota," he said. "That would be the end of the 32nd," he complained.

O'Konski "completely" endorsed a hard-hitting speech delivered by Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the committee on armed services, before the National Guard conference.

Resist Efforts

In an interview about Rivers' speech, O'Konski noted that the South Carolina congressman had urged the national guard to "resist efforts (within the Executive Department) to prevent and destroy the traditional and constitutional nature of the National Guard."

Beauty Flies in Today

Playboy's Playmate Will Ride in Saturday's College Avenue Parade

Appleton's "political jungle" shouldn't be anything compared to war-torn Vietnam for pretty Miss Jo Collins when she arrives here via an Air Wisconsin flight at 6:30 p.m. today.

Playboy Magazine's 1965 "Playmate of the Year" will spend three days in the city in conjunction with the College Avenue dedication celebration.

And from all indications — contrary to Mayor George Buckley's so-called "ban on beauty" — Miss Collins will appear in Saturday's parade as scheduled.

Up to Committee

Buckley said in a signed statement this morning, "With regard to Miss Collins, I have stated what my position was, but the final decision as to whether or not she rides in the parade must, of course, come from our parade committee. I have placed them in full charge of the parade, and I will rely on their judgment."

The mayor emphasized he had asked the members of the committee to serve in this capacity in order that "we would have a parade fitting the occasion of our grand opening of College Avenue."

"Each of these men has had years of experience in conducting parades, and I regard them as very competent. I am most grateful to them for the many long meetings that they had to attend, and for the efforts they had to put forth to assure a successful parade," he added.

Forgive George

Buckley had said Wednesday the young movie starlet, model and TV performer should not be permitted in the parade. Her local sponsors figured when Miss Collins arrives here she will probably forgive "George." Ald. Norman Beyer (20th), chairman of the council committee in charge of celebration arrangements, will represent the city on the welcoming committee when Miss Collins arrives at Outagamie County Airport.

In Vietnam

Mayor Buckley had asked Ald. John Ayers (12th) to replace him, but Ayers passed the assignment along to Beyer. The 21-year-old Miss Collins spent considerable time in Vietnam early this year visiting American servicemen near the mam battle areas. She also toured field hospitals.

In November, 1966, Playboy received a letter from a soldier, who said he was speaking for the men of Company B of the 173rd Airborne Brigade. He asked if their "favorite Play-

McGee to be At Kickoff

United Givers Dutch-Treat Dinner Scheduled Monday

Volunteers and agency staff members who attend the United Givers dutch-treat kickoff dinner Monday at 6:20 p.m. at Reetz's Supper Club, will hear chatter from Max McGee, Green Bay Packer offensive end.

"Adding zip to the program," said John Torinus, president and master of ceremonies, will be the Appleton High School-East Pep Band, under the direction of Thomas Jacobs, school band director.

Cyrus Rachie, general campaign chairman, will introduce division chairmen, and there will be a showing of the locally written and produced 10-minute slide film which describes the story of the 19 Red Feather agencies included in the $313,246 goal.

Dinner speaker is Prof. George B. Walter, chairman of Lawrence University's Department of Teacher Education.

Reservations may be made through Friday at the United Community Services office, 10-him, but Ayers passed the assignment along to Beyer. The 21-year-old Miss Collins spent considerable time in Viet-

Task Force Told State Aid Can't Help City Schools

Officials Say New Taxes Needed to Help Milwaukee

Appleton UW Student Is Convicted

MADISON (AP) — A Circuit Court jury deliberated about a half hour Wednesday before convicting two University of Wisconsin students on charges of disorderly conduct in connection with campus demonstrations last February against job recruiting by Dow Chemical Co.

The trial of Robert Cohen, 24, Levittown, Pa., and Robert Zwicker, 20, Appleton, lasted two days. Judge William Sachjen is scheduled to impose sentence Friday.

Cohen and Zwicker were among 21 students arrested by police for staging demonstrations against Dow, at that time a major producer of napalm for the Vietnam fighting.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State officials told the Tarr task force Wednesday that there is not enough money under existing state aid formulas to help Milwaukee out of its school budget crisis and that Wisconsin may earn money by dropping its federal categorical welfare aid system.

Making the statements were State Superintendent of Public Instruction William C. Kohl and Secretary of Health and Social Services Wilbur Schmidt.

They appeared before the task force headed by Lawrence University President Curtis Tarr of Appleton to explain present state aid systems and work with the study unit on possible means of redistributing shared funds to localities in need of extra money.

Report Due in 1969

Task of the group, comprised of citizens, legislators and state officials, is to report to the 1969 Legislature on possible methods of redistributing the state's shared tax pie — and on possible ways in which local units of government could reorganize to promote greater efficiency.

New tax forms and sources are needed to help Milwaukee out of its fiscal problems, Kohl told Norman Gill of the Citizens Governmental Research Bureau of Milwaukee. Existing aid plans just do not have the amounts of money that Milwaukee has been pushing for in the Legislature, he said.

One of the planks of Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier's plan for tax redistribution to give a better break to the state's larger cities has been redistribution of shared taxes to help Milwaukee's school system.

Schmidt agreed with a suggestion of the task force that state administration of categorical aid welfare programs might earn the state funds if block grants were accepted from the federal government instead of the specified funds now received and channeled into restricted programs.

Girl Slashes Officer in Calumet Jail

CHILTON — A Calumet County patrolman was slashed on his arms and wrists Monday night while attempting to restrain a 16-year-old girl who had skipped probation from another county.

Rodney Otto had taken the girl to the jail and was attempting to return her to her probation officer when she began to use abusive language and attempted to escape.

The girl pulled out a concealed razor and cut Ott several times when he attempted to handcuff her.

Mrs. Irvin Vice, the sheriff's wife and a radio operator, helped Ott to subdue the kicking and screaming girl, who was finally put in a restraining garment. She then was picked up by her probation officer.

Steiger Backs 9 Point Ethics Code for House

Principles for House Members Suggested During Testimony

WASHINGTON — Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, has supported a nine-point set of measures to establish and enforce standards of ethics for members of the House of Representatives, its officers and employees.

During testimony before the House standards of conduct committee, Steiger recommended creating a code of ethics; setting forth requirements that holdings in government regulated businesses, income, gifts and honorariums be disclosed; application of the requirements to officials with an income over a set minimum; assignment of the ethics committee to receive disclosure reports from individuals;

Insurance that the reports would be open to public inspection; empowering the committee to investigate formal complaints of violations; giving the committee the job of recommending action on violations to the house; requiring the committee to review the reports to determine whether they comply with the regulations, and applying the rules to persons filing as candidates for house seats as well as members of office.

Steiger testified before the committee last week and reported his views Wednesday in a regular release to newspapers in the Sixth District.

Twin Cities Eliminated in Green Bay Campus Selection

MENASHA — The Twin Cities were written off as a factor in the Green Bay case for selection of a site for the new Northeastern Wisconsin University at Green Bay, proponents of the Shorewood site said today.

The controversy over the site selection was re-debated before the Governmental Affairs Division of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce by Gerhard Willicke and A. W. Ponath for Outagamie County and Rudy Small and State Sen. Robert Warren of Green Bay.

Small said there was "only six to 12 minutes difference" in commuting time between the west side Larson Farm site and the east side Shorewood site for Appleton students. He added that Neenah and Menasha were not considered in the time element. "There was no reason to consider Neenah-Menasha," he said.

To WSU-O

He indicated that Twin Cities students, along with those from Outagamie County, could go to Wisconsin State University - Oshkosh if they wanted to commute to school.

Much of the debate centers around the criteria set up for the basis of site selection. Willicke said the criteria was ignored by the site selection committee. It was on this contention a suit was filed by Outagamie County to nullify the action naming the Shorewood site.

Ponath said the basis of Outagamie County's suit was that the site selection committee violated the state anti-secrecy law, hereby voiding their actions in picking the Shorewood site.

He admitted the entire process of getting the university started would be delayed if the county wins the suit. But, he added, the delay could be avoided by passage of the Rogers bill which would shift the university site to the Larson farm and reimburse Brown County for losses incurred at the Shorewood site.

Warren said he opposed the Rogers bill, submitted by Assemblyman William Rogers of Kaukauna, because of (1) its merits, (2) the delay involved, (3) it was fiscally irresponsible, and (4) it was bad basic policy.

Mass Slayer To be Tried For Murder

Green Bay Youth Insane at Time of Arrest in 1963

GREEN BAY (AP) — A 20-year-old youth will be returned from Central State Hospital at Waupun to stand trial for murder in the 1963 mass slaying of five members of his family.

Brown County Judge James W. Byers said today Dr. E. F. Schubert, superintendent of the mental hospital, had reported Harry Raymond Hebard "now recovered sufficiently to be tried for the alleged offenses."

Hebard is charged in the gun slaying Feb. 19, 1963, of his father, Jack, 37; his stepmother, Joyce; his 11-year-old twin sisters, Janice and Judy Rudell, and a stepbrother, John Rudell, 15. Four counts of first degree murder were placed against Hebard. A fifth, involving John Rudell, was held in abeyance. All of the victims were shot in the head with a .22 calibre weapon.

Shot at Home

The shootings occurred in the Hebard home, Harry, then 16, was picked up the following noon in Pulaski.

Authorities were told young Hebard had been under psychiatric care prior to the shootings. He was taken first to juvenile court where Judge Byers waived jurisdiction to criminal court. The youth's court-appointed attorney raised the sanity issue and on March 13 Hebard was committed to Central State Hospital for an indeterminate period of treatment.

Judge Byers said he would review the hospital file and set a date for the youth's return, probably within a month. He said the procedure probably would be to retrace the action through juvenile court for constitutional safeguards, then criminal court.

Dist. Atty. Robert Rahr Flatley said today the four-year delay did not "present much of a problem, but the question of sanity does."

"If the defendant was found insane and unable to stand trial (at the time of arrest), there is a pretty good chance for a defense claiming he was insane at the time the offenses were committed," Flatley added.

To Meet Demands

School Boards Advised to Take Bargaining Initiative

OSHKOSH — The promise of teachers being unrelenting in their demands for more money and more to say about educational matters evoked a proposal that school boards take the initiative at bargaining tables in an area school board meeting here Wednesday night.

"There are going to be more impasses at the bargaining table this year than ever before — encouraged by the success of teachers in other states,"

Racine Site Earmarked for City Center

Menasha Planners Urge Police, Fire Stations in Park

MENASHA — The city has received further black-and-white expressions of the goals and objectives recommended recently by Victor Gruen Associates planners, as a framework for guiding future growth and development.

Mayor Kenneth Holmes today received additional copies of the preliminary report on phase II of the comprehensive planning study being prepared by Gruen planners.

While a few copies were available when planners met with city officials a week ago to outline progress in the studies, other officials and civic leaders were awaiting their copies to study before the next session with the planners.

Specific goals repeated and expanded in the latest report include:

Development of Racine Street Park, already designated as the site of the proposed new library, to also accommodate municipal offices, police and fire stations and eventually a civic auditorium.

Preparation for expanding and replacing existing school facilities as needed.

Orienting future park and recreational growth to take better advantage of local lake and river resources.

Increasing the amount of multiple-family residential housing with provisions for access between the new developments and recreational and commercial facilities.

Recognizing the Government Canal as an asset to the community, providing for beautification and for the greatest possible access to it from recreational areas and from the downtown commercial neighborhoods.

Preparing to beautify railroad property and adjoining industrial sites where they meet residential areas, to minimize the blighting effects on the residential areas.

Police Investigate Litter Problem

A report of continued street littering along a street bordering Appleton High School-West was received by Appleton Police Wednesday.

Residents of Schneider Place, which runs by the school, said there have been incidents of excessive littering along the street for the past several days.

Police said they will investigate and apprehend anyone caught littering.

with a parents meeting, Mickey McGuire, physical education director, has announced.

Tryouts for the competitive diving team are set from 6:45 to 7:45 p.m. Tuesday. Swim team tryouts will start at 7:30 p.m.

Teams include both boys and girls from 7 to 21 years of age. Tryouts are open to both YMCA members and non-members.

George Tipler, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards, (WASB) said.

An estimated 100 attended the drive-in meeting at Oshkosh High School.

Tipler suggested that they have a tabulation of their present staff, a current price on their total financial picture, including the tax rate trend.

"It is important that you come to the bargaining table with a proposal for the contract being negotiated," he emphasized.

"Organize your thinking and have a clear picture of what your community is willing to support."

"It should be remembered that any item of mutual interest, to the board and the employees is a negotiable item," he continued. "If an impasse is reached, know the proper procedure for continuing the bargaining."

Legislation is being proposed this fall which will make mediation mandatory.

Factfinding, which can be costly to both parties involved, is not binding, Tipler continued, and it is a recognized method for brining the impasse to the public's attention.

Some of the issues expected to be involved in bargaining contracts this fall, according to the WASB secretary, are, teacher's tenure, basing extra-curricular pay on a percentage basis of the salary scale, salaries beyond regular school terms, duty free lunch period, lifting the teachers' load by non-professional student supervision and professional improvement.

Community Concerts Announced

Brass Quintet Launches Series

MENASHA — A recital by the American Brass Quintet, nationally-known as a unique ensemble of virtuoso instrumentalists, will launch the sixth season of the Neenah-Menasha Community Concert Association, it was announced today.

The Quintet, described as "the fruition of over a decade of individual devotion to brass music," will perform at the High School auditorium.

One of four noted musical masterpieces, and have recently been done considerable study and research on style and performance practices of the pre-Bach periods, the source of a good part of the ensemble's repertoire.

The member artists have transcribed and brought to light many 15th, 16th and 17th century music for brass quintet published.

Organized in 1957 to specialize in educational concerts, the Quintet made its New York concert debut in 1960, and since then has presented some 30 New York recitals. As a result of its increasing reputation, the group was invited to participate in music festivals in Italy, Yugoslavia and England, and has made an eight-week tour of Europe.

Fine Neenah Man for Public Intoxication

John Ostroski, 53, 684 S. Park St., Neenah, was fined $50 and costs or 24 days in jail Wednesday after he pleaded guilty to a public intoxication charge brought by Outagamie County police.

Ostroski, who was arrested in the Town of Center Tuesday, appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

cessful College Avenue public works project.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), chairman of the council's street-sanitation committee and Public Works Director Frank Keuler were presented with inscribed public service achievement plaques. Mayor Buckley received a paperweight made of a piece of 50-year-old concrete street.

Portland Cement Association officials congratulated the people of Appleton for supporting city officials on public works improvements, and urged that the city continue to be a pacesetter in northeastern Wisconsin.

Job Well Done

"I wish to congratulate city officials and the people they represent for a job well done," commented Thomas J. Driscoll, Appleton, field engineer for the association.

He explained it was 57 years ago that Appleton first started to experiment with concrete streets, and noted the city has some streets more than a half century old — it put in about 25 miles of concrete streets during the past decade.

Association officials heralded this fact as indicative of the growth and progress in Appleton — central city in the Fox Cities region.

Pointer and Keuler were praised for the work and effort they put into the College Avenue project. All who had anything and everything to do with the downtown reconstruction also received commendation from the association.

After reviewing Appleton's history of concrete street-paving, Mayor Buckley declared, "All of us can be proud of Appleton's concrete street program and the men who worked so hard to make it possible."

Public Attention

McCord said the association, a research organization serving the concrete paving industry, used occasions such as the one-millionth yard of cement and College Avenue reconstruction to call public attention to public works progress.

"It is easy for people to get complacent and forget the tremendous public works job being done in a community," McCord said.

"There can be nothing but praise for the work being done in Appleton," McCord declared.

Capping the testimonial, Portland Cement Association officials showed a color film of College Avenue reconstruction, which they said, would receive nationwide exposure.

Association officials said they were going to record the avenue dedication celebration on film to wind up the movie on Appleton.

mate" would consider making a tour of Vietnam.

A later letter said the young man who wrote the original letter had been wounded in action and was recuperating at a field hospital.

By this time Miss Collins had received clearance from the State and Defense Departments, and in January she was flown to the war zone.

When the raven-haired beauty arrived in Vietnam, she immediately visited the wounded soldier and members of his brigade at Bien Hoa. The brigade was the first American troop unit committed to action in Vietnam.

By making her sudden flight, Miss Collins bypassed an audition for a principal part on TV's "Peyton Place" serial.

An estimated 400 GI's greeted Miss Collins and presented her with a huge bouquet of red roses. She was outfitted in a pair of khaki GI fatigues and in the days that followed made several surprise appearances, including some in an area where Viet Cong troops were less than a mile away.

They said Miss Collins was a "real trooper" and adjusted to sniper fire which plagued the area.

General Ellis W. Williamson proclaimed Miss Collins the army's first "Female Sky Soldier." She often flew at tree-top height in a helicopter when visiting troops in the field.

While visiting Tipler Army Hospital in Honolulu Miss Collins was called by Ambassador Averill Harriman, who wished to express his and Secretary of State Dean Rusk's congratulations on all the good reports they'd heard concerning her morale-lifting mission.

So, Miss Collins shouldn't be too upset over the mayor's words. She has the armed forces on her side.

Motion Denied to Dismiss Charge in Coin-Robbery

OSHKOSH — Acting Circuit Judge David C. Willis, Green Lake County, has denied a defense motion to dismiss the armed robbery charge against Lawrence V. Miller, Oshkosh, in the Wanserski coin robbery case.

Judge Willis said he had reviewed the evidence presented in a preliminary hearing after which Miller was bound over to Circuit Court for trial, and found the evidence sufficient to support the magistrate's action binding the defendant over.

Further proceedings are scheduled for Oct. 19, when pre-trial motions are expected.

Miller is charged with taking part in the March 19 armed holdup in Menasha of Ervin Wanserski and his family. Three armed gunmen held the family and forced the grocery-store dealer Wanserski to help them remove $40,000 worth of coins from a storeroom.

Miller is currently free on $10,000 bond.

They said the Schmidts had another boarder living with them until about a year ago when he went to King to reside.

"He was a nice man and came back here some months ago to visit," commented Saglauer.

Saglauer said Schmidt built two garages about 10 years ago, one for himself and the other for Saglauer.

The Schmidts reportedly got rid of their old black car about six years ago.

Saglauer also told of how Mrs. Schmidt threw what appeared to be a large bone onto his property over the weekend, but then disappeared.

"She was digging in her garden and almost fell over the fence the other day," he added.

Saglauer and others said that years ago Schmidt had been "a real friendly man, but suddenly changed."

They said his wife "never would bid you the time of day."

But they did say that the basement light had been burning for several nights.

City Manager Talk in Neenah

NEENAH — Dr. Charles Goff, a university professor and a proponent of the council-manager form of government, will speak on the city manager-system at 7:30 p.m. today at the Neenah police station.

Goff, who is currently doing research on the history of the manager plan in Wisconsin, is associate professor of political science at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

The talk, co-sponsored by the Neenah-Menasha League of Women Voters and the Citizens for City Manager, is open to the public.

Appleton Man Admits Issuing Bad $10 Check

Thomas J. Heenan, 24, 1410 S. Kernan Ave., Appleton, pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of issuing a worthless $10 check June 21 at Doering's Super Value Store, 231 Walter Ave.

Judge Gustave J. Keller continued the case to Oct. 10 and set bond at $150.

assistance, and aid to disabled and the blind.

The programs would not be changed but the administration of them would be, decreasing administrative costs such as bookkeeping and increased efficiency, he said.

The option is available under the federal programs, but his department has not accepted it in the past because it felt the state preferred the specific categorical aids, he said.

The Tarr task force is the first unit to back the optional plan which might reduce state administrative costs, he said.

The task force also looked dubiously on present general relief payment systems which administer about $6 million in local relief funds through 1,800 local town officials.

Schmidt backed a change in the system to place the town-funded programs under centralized administration, through counties or the state.

Such changes have been blocked in the past by the unwillingness of town officials to relinquish the duties, he said, but such a change would promote accuracy, equality and efficiency in relief administration, Schmidt said.

Against Negative Tax

Schmidt opposed the concept of a negative income tax, however. The plan would make payments to people whose incomes fall below a general subsistence level, instead of the welfare payments now made.

The approach neglects considerations of the many non-economic causes of welfare need, he said, such as emotional problems, lack of family management abilities in married persons, and educational disadvantages causing eventual welfare problems. These would not be assisted under such a plan, he said.

Kahl backed Democratic proposals for special aids to educationally disadvantaged school children to help them leap cultural hurdles.

Such programs, he suggested, should be completely funded from special state aids, as school transportation and mental retardation training are met by the state.

Kahl said that the state aid formulas for school assistance should be recalculated, as they are based on needs and tax sources now over 15 years old.

The state has not reached its total capacity to finance education yet, he suggested, but new systems are needed to make further advances.

Existing methods may have reached their limits, he suggested.

He pointed out that while school enrollments have grown by 70 per cent during the period, and school budget costs have swollen by over 200 per cent real property in the state has grown by only 155 per cent — much of the gain due to inflation, not new building.

A big salute to all those who helped make the College Avenue reconstruction and beautification one of the most successful municipal undertakings in the history of the City of Appleton.

The community-wide celebration heralding the official dedication of College Avenue and the new Soldiers Square Parking Ramp, the latter another valuable and attractive addition to the city's central business district, began today.

Residents in the Fox Cities region and the entire state for that matter have been invited to participate in the three-day festivities that will conclude with a parade and dedication ceremonies Saturday.

On behalf of the citizens and merchants of Appleton, who are proud of their city and the fine new College Avenue, we welcome one and all to the celebration and urge that you take in the street dances, Homer and Jethro stage shows and other entertainment which should make for "fun" time.

U.S. Policy in the Middle East

While the United Nations General Assembly prepares for a full scale debate on the problems of the Middle East, spurred of course by the war last June and the continued armed clashes between Israelis and Arabs, the United States must face up to the fact that our policies in that area have as yet been unsuccessful either in promoting the chances of peace or lessening the influence of the Soviet Union in the area.

Richard Nolte, a specialist in Arab affairs and ambassador-designate to the United Arab Republic at the time of the June fracas, has submitted a long series of recommendations along with his resignation. The major tone of the report is that the United States should adopt a policy of hands-off.

Specifically Mr. Nolte suggests that the United States, the major contributor of funds for the United Nations program of support for the Arab refugees, close out over a period of years our financial support for the program so that primary responsibility "goes into the hands of the nations concerned." Further the United States should end its direct financial aid to Jordan and King Hussein, liquidate "our commitment to protect Saudi Arabia" against external attack and to bolster the regime "from internal pressure for a change." We should make no effort to re-establish relations with the UAR but accept if the Egyptians make the first move. And we should provide arms only on a commercial sales basis and on the same terms to all. We should permit private citizens to send funds but grant tax deductions only for "strictly humanitarian" donations.

Mr. Nolte contends that our active intervention in the affairs of the Middle East since 1947 "has not prevented the development of an overriding hostility to the United States in the Arab world. Nor has it prevented the Soviet Union from becoming a major power in the Middle East. Indeed the Soviet Union has seemed to profit by our mistakes." Because we have used the Middle East to preserve a cold war standoff, Mr. Nolte says that we now have a "sort of live and let live arrangement so that whatever happens in the Middle East, neither power is going to act in such a way as to bring on itself the threat of major attack by the other."

Mr. Nolte concedes that American officials have tried to avoid becoming completely associated with Zionism but that in the eyes of the Arab world they have not succeeded. But a hands-off policy by the government, he argues, would then permit private individuals to become involved without putting the United States itself on one side or the other.

In part this seems another example of the growing American realization that we cannot dictate or even influence at times the direction other nations will take. Unfortunately we have become associated with the more conservative governments in the Middle East with the resulting charges that we are for the status quo and against the more revolutionary regimes. What we must come to realize is that, even though it may be true that King Hussein and the royal government of Saudi Arabia are better for the people of those countries than the more hysterical leadership apparent in Egypt and Syria, it is not our decision to make. And, as Mr. Nolte points out, the Arab beliefs about our backing of Israel means that "policy interventions labor under so severe a handicap that they are mostly ineffective and downright counterproductive."

Meetings of Middle Eastern leaders have indicated a trend toward a more conservative point of view, at least in the light of the stunning defeat of the Arabs by Israel. But now that we have resumed our financial aid to Jordan, will it make King Hussein more suspect among his fellow Arabs and are we in reality doing him more harm than good?

It is quite true that many of the national leaders are not bothered when their economic and political policies do not jibe. The UAR has resumed sales of oil to Western European countries, for instance, although diplomatic relations have not been re-established. But to some extent we have failed to recognize the importance of nationalism in the new countries and that nationalism permits no overt signs of influence from outside. Long years of colonialism have made the new national leaders especially sensitive to charges that they are anyone's lackeys.

Several years ago Senator William Fulbright proposed that more and more American aid be channeled through international bodies rather than handed out unilaterally by the United States. Mr. Nolte's recommendations for the Middle East would appear to follow this line.

'Careful, fellows. We mustn't overload the craft.'

Present Soviet Regime Plods Along On Drive to Dismantle Stalinism

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

MOSCOW — As a fetching object for redistribution few regimes can catch the present government of the Soviet Union.

It is slow, wooden, pedestrian and everything else that is boring. It has failed in the Middle East and gone on the defensive in Europe. In Asia, as the latest Soviet commitments in Vietnam demonstrate, it has been made to pay the piper without calling the tune.

Still, from both the Soviet point of view and the American alike, the present regime here is almost certainly the best this country could put forward. And the interesting question is whether the regime can last long enough to achieve the task it is so undramatically carrying out.

The task is the dismantling of the Stalinist economy with its monolithic administrative control from the top. The instrument of change is the economic reform, announced at the end of 1965 by Premier Alexei Kosygin with the evident backing of Party Sec. Leonid Brezhnev.

CAPITALISM NOT GOAL

Of course the reform is not, as some Westerners imagine, designed to move Russia from socialism to capitalism. The purpose is to improve the present system, to end the Soviet economic stagnation which set in beginning about 1960.

In the process of trying to pep up the economy, however, the Soviet leaders have had to fall back on such devices as local initiative, incentives for management and workers, emphasis on profits, and efficient use of resources. At the very least, accordingly, the reform implies a freeing up of the system to the advantage of the consumer. In the long run it could work a transformation to a system more prone to sensible behavior in domestic and foreign affairs.

The proponents of reform are not small in number. Peasants stand to gain from a new emphasis on agriculture. So do consumers who have begun to develop an undoubted taste for quality goods. And then there are the younger economists and technicians who value efficiency.

But far more powerful and better organized interests are arrayed against the reform. Party bosses up and down the scale find that in the matter of economic decision-making they are no longer the absolute masters. Similarly, the groups which most benefited under the old system — the so-called "metal-eaters" in heavy industry and the armed forces — now face competition for resources of capital, manpower and materials.

Kruschchev took on all these various interests head-on. By shock tactics he undoubtedly moved the Soviet economy off dead-center. But he had to chop and change on a scale that inevitably bred failures. Faced with setbacks he gambled for quick successes. And that seems to be the explanation for the dangerous confrontations he forced over Berlin and Cuba.

By contrast the regime of Brezhnev and Kosygin moves by conciliation and consensus. Decisions are made at the margin; or not at all; or sometimes only to be undone. Inevitably progress is slow and painful.

THERE IS PROGRESS

But there is progress. About one-third of the Soviet productive plant has now been put under the reform. Little by little Moscow is disentangling itself from over-commitment in the Middle East. Not only did the Russians table a non-proliferation treaty with the United States, but they have privately advanced a text on the disputed matter of inspection which promises a final accord.

Moreover, while making concessions to the military and the heavy industry captains, the regime has plainly weathered whatever pressure came from the party ideologists. Almost nothing has been heard recently from the veteran member of the party secretariat — Mikhail Suslov. The up-and-coming ideologist — Alexander Shelepin — has been assigned to a Trades Union post which should take him out of the secretariat for the time being.

Fifty perhaps, what makes the regime vulnerable is something far less exciting than internal pressure. Brezhnev has had two heart attacks. Kosygin has also been ill recently. Plainly the present team cannot go on for very long.

But the longer the better, I believe. For all signs indicate that once the present balance is disturbed, there will come to power a group of Kremlin leaders far more aggressive in asserting Soviet international interests and the ideology of communism.

Private Colleges in State Have Central Office in Madison

BY ROBERT DE ZONIA

MADISON — Somewhat in the shadow of noteworthy, if not spectacular, developments of public higher educational opportunities in Wisconsin, is the slow but steady growth of collegiate situations varying designated as "non-state supprise, did the association establish a central office in Madison. This writer, formerly assistant director of the WSU system (1954-67) and co-director of the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHHE) staff (1961-64), was appointed the first full-time executive director of WAUCU.

Today's pinchhitting Madison correspondent is the executive director of the newly formed Wisconsin Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

The WAUCU office will serve as a collector and transmitter of data about the colleges, will conduct educational studies and surveys, and will seek to further cooperative efforts within the association and between its colleges and public institutions of higher learning.

In many respects the WAUCU office will provide the same kinds of educational services and leadership the CCHHE staff is designed to provide for state schools. It will be the main link between the public and private "systems" and will seek to assure that WAUCU schools are effective partners in educational planning of statewide impact.

RESPONDS TO CONCERN

Development of the WAUCU office responds to concern about the future of independent colleges. This concern spans the nation and is exemplified in New York State, where Gov. Rockefeller has formed a panel of distinguished educators to advise the state on how to preserve the vitality and strength of its private colleges.

The WAUCU office hopefully will aid in the solution of problems which have generated such concern. Wisconsin's independent colleges — which enrolled 33,142 students last fall — slightly less than one-fourth of all college students in Wisconsin — stand on the threshold of greater service.

But at a time when public universities are seeking increasing support and assistance beyond that furnished by governmental sources, private colleges and universities must also seek a broadened base of understanding and support to achieve their potential and to contribute even more fully to the well-being of the state.

Indeed, they may need this expanded base simply to cope with the "crisis of survival" which was so aptly delineated by Yale President Kingman Brewster in a recent issue of Time Magazine.

If unity of spirit and purpose count for anything, and history suggests it does, WAUCU colleges and universities can expect to be a vital — and vitalizing — force in Wisconsin higher education for years to come.

ported," "private," or "independent."

The word "private" is unfortunate in one sense, as some believe this to mean an exclusive college for the elite, whereas the word merely emphasizes that private — rather than governmental — enterprise launched the college and provided a basis for its fiscal support.

It is probable that few citizens of Wisconsin realize that the first institutions of collegiate rank in the state were private colleges. Beloit and Carroll were both officially recognized in 1846, two full years before Wisconsin became a state.

Perhaps more know that some of Wisconsin's independent colleges are recognized nationally for their vitality, stature, and impact on educational philosophy and practice.

FEW UNDERSTAND SYSTEM

Certainly, in the areas served by the several schools there is an appreciation of their service and value. But perhaps because of what one may term an "information gap," there is little statewide understanding of the private colleges as a collective unity.

To be sure, there is no formalized "system" such as the UW or Wisconsin State University (WSU) systems. Nor is there a master board of coordinators. But there are parallels. Acting to weld the schools together is a commonality of purpose — a basic commitment to undergraduate education in the liberal arts and sciences.

About six years ago, common aspirations and perspectives on how better to serve Wisconsin and their constituents prompted 18 private colleges and universities to collaborate in the formation of the Wisconsin Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (WAUCU).

Harris Divides Jokes Into Square, Round

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Although philosophers as lofty and profound as William James and Henri Bergson have had a go at analyzing humor, I have never seen a book (or even a chapter) that really explains what makes a joke funny.

Humor seems to be so daughter, the ignorant judge, the absent-minded professor, the bride in the kitchen, the clothing salesman, the handsome lifeguard, and the other cardboard figures so favored by cornball orators at political and fraternal banquets.

Repetitious as most of them are, the "shaggy dog" stories, which rose to popularity some years ago, represent a commendable effort to inject airiness and imagination into the stale world of jokes.

By frankly defying the laws of logic, they free the joke from its heavy bondage to fact, and evoke warm memories of our childish delight in the impossible, the fantastic, the miraculous.

Drunk stories have almost never amused me, for most drunks are dreary bores. Offhand, I can think of only one that is light and spherical. It concerns the avid antique-hunter who finally found, in a shabby little shop, the exact grandfather clock he had wanted for years.

Eager to take it home at once, he paid cash and tied the clock to his back. A half-block down the street, a drunk stumbled out of a saloon and knocked the man into the gutter, flat on his back, smashing the grandfather clock to smithereens.

The man shouted up, "You drunken lout, why don't you look where you're going!" The drunk peered down at the man curiously. "And you," he mumbled, "why don't you wear a wristwatch, like everybody else?"

elusive a bubble that merely to touch it is to burst it. The wittiest man (Stephen Leacock, for instance) becomes dull and didactic when trying to analyze the essence of humor.

For myself, I simply divide jokes into two kinds: square jokes and round jokes. Round jokes have a bounce to them, and square jokes (told by square people) just lie there and look at you.

In the category of square jokes, I would put almost all stories about two Irishmen, two Jews, two Swedes, two Negroes, and two of any other racial or national class. When these jokes are not cruel, they are obvious; and not one out of a thousand captures the inner spirit of the group.

Mother-in-law jokes belong in the Sunday supplements of 1910, along with the farmer's Democracy in the U.N.

Secretary General U Thant has finally come around to the point of view that every independent nation which applies for membership in the United Nations should not have equal voting rights and responsibilities with the larger members. But the trouble is where to draw the line.

Since 1960, 40 new nations have been admitted to full membership. The great majority of the 40 are underdeveloped countries of Asia and Africa, many of them politically unstable and most of them economically unhealthy. Their old fears of colonial power and domination has led them to band together in voting on many issues, with their own welfare the major issue rather than any long view of world affairs. The most recent members are Lesotho, Botswana and the Maldives Islands. The latter have a population of 97,000 people who make their meagre living fishing and processing coconuts.

It has been ridiculous since the onset for a wealthy and large nation like the United States to have the same number of votes in the General Assembly as a small and poor one. But there were political issues involved and of course the major nations also had permanent positions on the Security Council. But as one small nation after another has acquired full membership, the concerns and doubts have grown.

The Secretary General tried to define what he called "microstates" as "entities which are exceptionally small in area, population and human and economic resources and which are now emerging as independent states." But interpretation of such a definition is a matter of degree. Would U Thant suggest that Burma, for instance, be less of a full member than the Soviet Union?

Clearly something should be done if the United Nations is to be anything more effective than a debating society. It is not merely that voting rights are out of proportion to populations. The underdeveloped nations simply are not able to pay their full assessments and in reality they shouldn't be expected to. A formula should be worked out involving both population and economic status but this will be difficult to make acceptable to poor and small nations already with full membership.

But there is no time to waste. Already Anguilla, which declared its independence from Great Britain, has applied for full membership with its population of 6,000. And the next one in line is Pitcairn Island, all two square miles of it and its entire population of 88 people, most of them descendants of Fletcher Christian.

Riot, Murder Plot Exposed In Philadelphia

Authorities Claim Negroes Would Have Poisoned Policemen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Revolutionary Action Movement, a Negro extremist group has been charged with planning to start a riot then poisoning thousands of policemen and top city officials.

Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter said warrants were issued for four members of the group which has been blamed in the past for planning to assassinate moderate Negro leaders and to blow up the Statue of Liberty and other national shrines.

One of the men being sought, Anthony B. Monteiro, 21, walked into a Chicago police station Wednesday night and surrendered. He was ordered held for extradition.

Specter said the warrants charged solicitation and conspiracy to commit murder, incite a riot and arson, attempted murder and other charges.

Cyanide in Food
Lt. George Fencil, head of the police civil disobedience squad, said in a court affidavit that the plan was to incite a riot this past summer, then put cyanide in food distributed free to police on riot duty as well as in restaurants throughout the city where "policemen and citizens would be taking food and drink."

Specter said one informant also claimed the lives of James H. J. Tate, Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo, and Specter "were to be taken."

Key to uncovering the plot was information offered by a man identified by Specter as Hilton Louis Jones, 22, who said he was a member of the plotting group.

Last week Jones went to the Philadelphia office of the FBI and turned over more than half a pound of potassium cyanide to special agent Edward Cole, Specter said.

The amount was "sufficient to kill at least 4,500 persons, according to experts," said Specter.

Backyard Grave

Even Police Had Trouble Believing What They Saw

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

It started with a dirt-covered piece of flesh wrapped in newspapers.

Within two hours, some 15 Appleton policemen, many of them wearing dark suits and some sweating in 37-degree weather, wearing short-sleeve shirts, had unearthed a backyard graveyard that concealed more than 20 pieces of a body.

Even the policemen, who were not totally unprepared for what they might find, could scarcely believe what they had stumbled onto once they started digging in the garden behind 319 N. Division St.

It was a sight one could expect to find in an Alfred Hitchcock thriller or the Frankenstein late movie. But not in a backyard three blocks off Appleton's main street, while neighbors slept.

For the first hour, police brought up a part of the body, presumed to be an old man, with each shovelful of dirt. First the small chunk of flesh — then two more pieces of unidentifiable flesh — then a forearm with the hand attached. Next came a lower leg, with the foot intact.

Each piece was carefully examined, then put into a large plastic bag. The bags were piled into small wash-tubs, which were sitting in the garden pocked with old, brown tomatoes and small, dead plants.

The work was done under a sliver of a moon that added little to the weak flashlights and strong beams of light, powered by large generators, that hummed out across the backyard.

Policemen wore rubber gloves. At times the stench became nearly unbearable.

Some of the pieces lay exposed under a foot of dirt. But most were neatly wrapped in newspapers or burlap, kept together with nylon cord, sometimes tied in bows.

Shovels clanked against the cement foundation at the rear of the garage. Then police moved to the other end of the garden. The drone of the generators soon woke neighbors who appeared in bathrobes. Some stayed to watch as police moved up the side lawn, looking for fresh dig-

Police tried to create as little a stir as possible, but 15 men digging in a backyard at 2 a.m. attract attention.

They found fresh earth alongside the front porch, and on the other side of the house. A garbage can yielded another part of the body. There always seemed to be at least one searcher who knew just what part of the anatomy had just been found.

By 3:15 a.m. police had spaded nearly the entire backyard and much of the rest of the lawn at 319 N. Division St. They re-sifted what they already turned over, yet parts still were unaccounted for.

The crowd thinned out. Curious neighbors went back home, but probably to tell their families what they had seen.

A seasoned police official leaned on his shovel and stared at the freshly spaded graveyard.

"I don't believe it," he said. "Not in Appleton."

Body Parts Found in Her Back Yard; Police Feel It May be Her Husband

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An 80-year-old Appleton woman was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital early this morning after additional parts of a human body were found in her yard and garden. She is Mrs. George Schmidt, 319 N. Division St.

Pieces of bone and flesh were discovered in her yard by police about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday. Several hours later police obtained a search warrant and entered Mrs. Schmidt's home. They found her sitting in her darkened basement with a rope dangling near her head. Less than an hour later police found additional pieces of the body buried in her back yard. The butchered body is believed to be that of Mrs. Schmidt's 84-year-old husband.

While an Appleton policeman remains outside Mrs. Schmidt's room at the hospital, police emphasized that she is not under guard or being held.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer said this morning that no charges have been filed, nor have any arrests been made. He declined to say when and if a charge would be made. Schaefer explained that his investigation, and that of other authorities, is continuing.

A mobile unit from the State Crime Laboratory was back in Appleton this morning. Laboratory experts were at 319 N. Division St.

'Search for More'
Schaefer said the experts will "assist in the search for more evidence."

The shocking, early morning discovery of a major part of a human body, scattered beneath the lawn and garden around the Schmidt home, brought police to the end of a relentless search that began Monday after four first and second graders at St. Joseph School found a sack containing toes and foot flesh on the playground.

First reports indicated that the person, presumed to be George Schmidt, had been dead from 1½ to 2 weeks.

Authorities said they could not term the case a murder until a further investigation is made. Schaefer said he is hopeful further studies by the crime laboratory will help determine how the person died.

Nor would police reveal how they believed the body was dissected into small parts, although it was learned that several "tools," including saws and knives, were found in the Schmidt home.

The State Crime Laboratory said Tuesday that a human liver, found near St. Joseph School Monday, held an "unknown non-metallic object resembling a pellet." The object could have penetrated clothing before entering the liver, authorities were told. Police would not speculate on the possibility of a shooting.

Authorities were still at 319 N. Division St. late this morning.

Weekly Casualty Figures Show Slack in Ground Action

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes fought nine air battles with swarms of MIG fighters over North Vietnam Wednesday, while the ground war generally slackened and the embattled U.S. Marine post at Con Thien had the lightest day of its month-long artillery siege.

Weekly casualty figures released by the U.S. Command today reflected a lull in the ground war. Last week the United States lost 128 killed and 1,434 wounded, well below the weekly average. Communist losses reported by the U.S. Command for the week were 1,134 dead, also below average.

Most at Con Thien
Most of the American casualties were among the Marines holding positions in the Con Thien area, 2½ miles below the DMZ, against a possible invasion of South Vietnam's northern provinces by 35,000 North Vietnamese troops massed in and near the buffer zone.

Clearing skies enabled American pilots to fly 159 combat missions Wednesday in making a near-maximum effort over the North for the second straight day. The Americans ran into fierce anti-aircraft fire and nearly every operational jet the Reds could put in the sky.

Although there were nine dog-fights with the MIG17s and MIG21s, no planes were reported damaged or downed in these battles. The one loss listed by the U.S. Command was a Marine A4 Skyhawk jet hit by ground fire above the demilitarized zone, the 685th plane downed over North Vietnam. The pilot ejected over the Tonkin Gulf and was rescued.

The American planes, trying to impair North Vietnam's ability to support its ground forces in the South, struck at communal provinces by 35,000 North Vietnamese troops massed in and near the buffer zone.

He ran and was only yards distant when the plane exploded. His only mark was a reddened patch of skin on his leg between his football pants and the top of his socks.

On any other day the Bradford Elementary School yard would have been abuzz at the time with pupils lingering beside the band hall to pick up their bicycles.

But Wednesday was faculty meeting day and the 633 pupils were dismissed before the two-engine plane, owned by Ling-Temco-Vought Electrosystems, spiraled down, trailing smoke and with its left wing bent.

Plane Crashes Into Empty Schoolyard

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Two aerospace civilian workers and five military pilots died Wednesday when their small plane nosedived onto a busy street and ricocheted into an elementary school — just 20 minutes after classes let out.

Rio Grande Still Rising

President to Visit Flooded Area

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Floodwaters continued to rise in this lower Rio Grande Valley city today as President Johnson prepared to fly to the hurricane- and flood-devastated area for an inspection.

The Arroyo Colorado, massive diversionary channel of the Rio Grande, dropped slowly while the river edged higher.

Build More Dikes

Families from 50 to 60 homes in less affluent neighborhoods were the latest to be driven out Wednesday night as the runaway Arroyo Colorado made end runs around hurriedly constructed dikes.

Bulldozer crews threw up new dikes to stem the flow shortly after midnight.

Flooding worsened as water shot in small geysers from overtaxed storm sewers. Engineers said the waters of the Arroyo, into which rainfall usually drains, were backing into the city because there was nowhere else to go.

More businesses suffered and more streets were awash. Gov. John B. Connally, who planned to meet President Johnson in Austin today with a formal request for federal aid, ordered 300 additional National Guardsmen to join 600 already on duty in the stricken areas.

Stay on Job

Red Cross, Salvation Army, 4th Army and Texas Department of Public Safety disaster and relief crews, tired from days of turmoil unleashed by Hurricane Beulah and the subsequent floods, stayed on the job to care for refugees and direct evacuations.

As more water flowed in late Wednesday night, Mayor George Young told Harlingen residents via radio and television, "We'll be in jeopardy for another three days. . . . With a little bad luck, we could be in another nasty mess."

"One of the things that could happen," Young said, was for rain to fall upstream. As he spoke, light showers peppered Laredo, 180 miles up the Rio Grande. There also was fresh rainfall on the stream's watershed in Mexico.

Refugee shelters housed 30,000 persons cared for by the Red Cross, 1,500 by the Salvation Army and hundreds of others in Reynosa and Matamoros, Mexican cities just across the Rio Grande.

Men, women and children joined hands to shore up shaky levees and dikes with sandbags protecting their homes and businesses.

The city of Mercedes, 13 miles upstream, attempted by court action to prevent repair of a levee break at Harlingen. Mercedes spokesmen contended such repair would force more water into the Rio Grande's main channel and cause dikes to break Mercedes and Weslaco, also upriver. A federal judge turned down the plea.

1,600 Feet Wide
With more than 16,000 sandbags in place, 200 men continued a 24-hour patrol of the Weslaco levees. The river was 1,600 feet wide at that point, where it often is only a trickle.

Food and drinking water were an increasing problem. Tons of surplus foodstuffs from the Agriculture Department were trucked into the devastated zone, the Red Cross said.

Citizens were told to boil all drinking water. Many drank beer and soft drinks when they could be found. A San Antonio brewery sent 150,000 gallons of bottled water.

Home Economics Classes at Manawa High School have been stressing the importance of good eating habits as they attempt to encourage their fellow students to participate in the hot lunch program. Vicki Zirbel and Sherry Lewin display a poster dramatizing the project. (Hahn Photo)

Chilton C of C Officials Oppose 'Super County' Plan

Hertel Says Froehlich Proposal 'Viewed With Alarm, Disbelief'

CHILTON — The chamber of Commerce here has gone on record as being strongly opposed to a recommendation made by Assembly Speaker Harold V. Froehlich, R-Appleton, to combine Calumet, Outagamie and Winnebago counties into one "super county."

William Hertel, chamber president, was directed by his organization to make the protest in a letter to the assemblyman with copies sent to State Sen. Robert W. Warren, R-Green Bay.

Hertel said the proposal, "was viewed by us with alarm and disbelief." He went on to say if Calumet County is "presently too often ignored" it would prefer to retain the status.

Hertel claimed the county, with a population of 22,300, ranks second in the state in per capita wealth and is among the top 100 nationally.

He said the county has a land area of 320 square miles with all but 10 per cent suitable for cultivation. He continued that the county has a healthy industrial complex which manufactures quality products. There are 114 manufacturing positions for each 1,000 residents, Hertel said, where the state average is 113. The annual payroll exceeds $15 million, he claimed.

Prime Recreation

Calumet has prime recreation facilities with control of almost half the shoreline of Lake Winnebago which contains some of the state's best fishing and boating.

Through planning many years ago, the county board purchased 200 acres along the lake for a park, maintained for about $25,000 a year. Hertel claims more than 80 per cent of the visitors are from outside the county. The county also contains High Cliff State Park.

By intelligent planning, Hertel said, Calumet County has no debt. He said Outagamie County owes $4 million and Winnebago County owes $3 million. He said the 1964 county tax rate was $3.85 per $1,000 of equalized valuation compared with the state average of $6.55.

Hertel's letter also pointed out that in recent years Calumet County was the first to have complete school consolidation and first to have county schools for retarded children.

School Board Accepts CEA At Clintonville

Education Group Is Bargaining Agent for Teachers in System

CLINTONVILLE — The board of education recognized the Clintonville Education Association (CEA) as the exclusive bargaining agent for certified personnel at its Tuesday night meeting at the Longfellow School.

The CEA requested recognition in a communication which stated all of the 90 teachers that make up the faculty belong to the association.

In reply to an inquiry from the CEA as to the board's policy regarding the Wisconsin Education Association convention Nov. 2-3 in Milwaukee, the board approved a motion that teachers may go to the convention as part of their fulfillment of teacher contract days or work at the school which will be closed both days.

The third alternative, given last year, that those who did not attend the convention or work at school had two days' reduction in their paycheck, was deleted this year.

Tax Levy for VTE-12 Is $53,896

NEW LONDON — School district taxpayers will pay $53,896 toward the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education-District 12 (VTE-12) 1968 levy of $1,990,150.

The $1.07 per $1,000 equalized value tax rate will be applied against each municipality in the district and won't be reflected in school district levy or budget, as the VTE-12 is a separate body comprised of 25 school districts in Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Calumet counties.

Total equalized valuation of the New London School District is $50,370,400, while total VTE-12 valuation is about $1.8 billion.

City of New London taxpayers will have to pay $29,777 of the levy according to the city's valuation of $27,830,600.

FWD Sales Meeting Slated at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — A general two-day sales meeting of district sales managers and representatives of FWD Corp. will be held here Friday and Saturday, L. L. Pernot, general sales manager, said.

District sales managers handle sales and distribution of products to dealers in all 50 states.

Menominee Gets $25,000 to Plan Recreational Area

Proposal Outlines Motel, Golf Course, Two Artificial Lakes

A $25,000 grant from the Economic Development Administration has made it possible for the Menominee Indians to embark upon an ambitious plan which, if carried out, will bring more money to Menominee County, yet preserve 95 per cent of the area's natural beauty.

The optimistic proposal prepared by Ernst and Ernst, Washington, D.C. planners, calls for construction of a large resort motel, the creation of two artificial lakes, and the sale of

Hebard Will Again Face Murder Trial

Green Bay Youth, 16, Is Judged Sane at State Hospital

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — A Green Bay youth who, at the age of 16, was four years ago charged with first degree murder in the worst multiple slaying in Green Bay's history, has been judged sane and will again face trial.

Harry Raymond Hebard, charged in the shooting deaths of five members of his family on Feb. 19, 1963, was confined to Central State Hospital at Wausau after being declared insane and unable to assist in his own defense.

He was charged with four counts of first degree murder in the deaths of his father, Jack Hebard, 37, his stepmother, Joyce Hebard, and twin step-sisters, Janice and Rudy Rudell, 11 years old. A step-brother, 15-year-old John Rudell, was also slain, but the fifth murder count was withheld by then Dist. Atty. Robert Warren.

Has Recovered

Judge James W. Byers received notice this week from Dr. E. F. Schubert, superintendent of Central State Hospital, that Hebard, "has now recovered sufficiently to be tried on the alleged offenses."

Judge Byers said he will review the hospital file on the youth and set a date for his return, probably in a month or so, when he can fit it in the court calendar.

"We want to handle this matter as quickly as possible once it is returned here," the judge noted.

Hebard, a former West High student, was apprehended on a farm near Pulaski the same day his family was discovered in their home at 2626 Hazlewood Lane.

Ordered Waived

All five victims died of bullet wounds in the head, fired from a .22 caliber pistol and rifle.

After being questioned by city and county police, Hebard appeared before Judge Byers in Brown County Juvenile Court on Feb. 19, 1963. He was ordered

Girl Slashes Officer in Calumet Jail

CHILTON — A Calumet County patrolman was slashed on his arms and wrists Monday night while attempting to restrain a 16-year-old girl who had skipped probation from another county.

Rodney Otto had taken the girl to the jail and was attempting to return her to her probation officer when she began to use abusive language and attempted to escape.

The girl pulled out a concealed razor and cut Ott several times when he attempted to handcuff her.

Mrs. Irvin Vice, the sheriff's wife and a radio operator, helped Ott to subdue the kicking and screaming girl, who was finally put in a restraining garment. She then was picked up by her probation officer.

Parents to be Told Manawa Pupils' Status

MANAWA — Parents will be notified at the end of five weeks if their youngster is failing or near failing in any subject, according to H. A. Jackson, high school principal. Appointments for interviews will be arranged between the instructor of the subject and the parents to discuss the situation.

Forms have been given all instructors to be filled out and mailed to parents Oct. 4. Parents will have an opportunity to learn the academic status of their student before the nine-week grading period.

Take Industrial Course at Brillion

Girls Prepare for Factory Jobs

BRILLION — Basic machine operation, machine shop work on lathes and presses, use of hand tools, and welding are being studied by a seven-member all-girl class at the Brillion Cooperative Vocational School.

The high school guidance department discovered through testing and personal interviews that the girls were interested in learning shop skills.

So the class was added to the curriculum this year after school personnel studied area employment needs.

Results have indicated that many available factory jobs can be handled by women.

Some recent female high school graduates here are employed in factories but they have had no school preparation for their present jobs.

A post-World War II national trend indicating that the number of women employed in factories is rising holds true at the Brillion Iron Works, Inc. (BIW) and the Ariens Company here.

There are 500 men employed and 50 women employed in the BIW foundry — 10 per cent. Forty of the 50 women were hired the past three years, according to BIW personnel officials.

Ariens Company has 314 on its payroll. It has 259 plant workers; 28 per cent are women.

Appleton Det. Sgt. Carl H. Thiel, kneeling, and Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, (above) point to large sections of a body believed to be that of George Schmidt, 85, 319 N. Division St. Police started the search for parts of a body after first obtaining a search warrant late Wednesday night. The finding early today brings to an end an intensive search that began with

Mayor Wants 'Playmate' Out of Parade

Beauty Ban in Appleton

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Mayor George Buckley created a furor Wednesday with his order that Playboy Magazine's 1965 "Playmate of the Year" be banned from being in the College Avenue dedication parade Saturday morning.

A College Avenue menswear store has made arrangements for the appearance here of Miss Jo Collins of Hollywood and New York — a promising young movie starlet, professional model and TV performer.

Family Celebration

"As far as I'm concerned it would not be proper for her to be in the parade," Buckley told a reporter, "She's a strip artist and I feel this type of a person should have no place in it."

Buckley said he took the position because, "This College Avenue parade is a family-type celebration."

Welfare Director Merten Ehrlicke, the parade marshal, said Buckley had discussed the matter with him informally. "It is my personal opinion that Miss Collins be in the parade. There is nothing wrong with having this young woman participate."

However, Ehrlicke said he has worked with a committee of volunteers "to put together a fine parade" and wanted to put the matter before them at a meeting Thursday night at city hall.

"I'll abide by the decision of the committee members," They have worked very hard on their assignment."

Arenz 'Shocked'

At the same time, Ehrlicke said he did not feel the parade or College Avenue should get involved in politics.

Jerry Arenz, who has played a major role in helping make contacts and organizing the parade, said he was shocked when he heard of the mayor's comments this morning.

"She's staying in the parade as far as I'm concerned," Arenz declared, "This guy Buckley is starting to get under everybody's skin."

Ald. Norman Beyer (20th), chairman of the city council's College Avenue Celebration Committee, said, "I really don't know what to say. I'll go along with the decision of the parade committee."

Elaborating on his position, Buckley said he had no personal objection to a private business firm engaging the

Danes Invite Waupaca Police Chief Group to Europe Visit Wins Grant

WAUPACA — Members of the Waupaca People to People chapter have been invited to take part in a three-week visit to Denmark and six other European countries. The offer has been received from People to People Travel Service Headquarters, Kansas City, Mo.

During this past summer, members of a people to people chapter played host to a group of visiting Danes for several days.

A spokesman for the local chapter said the Denmark and Europe trip has been scheduled for late April 1968.

While in Denmark, members of the tour will be staying with Danish families for about four nights. The European tour will include visits to Germany, Hungary, Austria, Switzerland, Holland and England. The tour will start from New York and members will travel by charter flight, the spokesman said.

Members of the tour must be members of a People to People Chapter for at least six months prior to departure. Persons interested in becoming a member of the Waupaca chapter may contact Clifford E. Johnson, chapter president.

NEW LONDON — Police Chief Jack V. Algiers has received a grant from the Office of Law Enforcement Assistance, U. S. Department of Justice to attend a seminar on "Personnel Management for Police" at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

The seminar, conducted by the university's traffic institute, will be from Oct. 23 through Nov. 10. Covered during the seminar will be personnel management, the employment system, personnel records, performance evaluation, personnel testing, disciplinary process, promotion and human relations.

Clintonville Students Plan Homecoming

CLINTONVILLE — A bonfire at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6, at the corner of Sixteenth and River Streets will begin the homecoming weekend, during which the truckers play the Shawano Indians.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. Oct. 7, football game at 2 p.m., and the dance will be from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Queen Elizabeth Mullarkey will be escorted by King Ray Grant. Members of the court will be Patricia Berton and

Comets, Marion Clash on Friday

Manawa Faces Amherst, 'Wega Takes on Rated Stanley-Boyd

The Waupaca Comets, reeling after a 39-13 non-league lacing from Berlin last week, try to get back on the winning trail Friday night at Marion in the lone Central Wisconsin Conference game scheduled for the weekend.

Mark Paape and Beverly Bate and Dennis Schwenke, seniors; Beth Heideman and Terry Olsson, juniors, and Eileen Krause, and John Kirchner, sophomores.

Waupaca will be seeking its second league victory, which would also square its overall mark at 2-2. The Mustangs, meanwhile, have yet to notch a triumph in four games — two in CW play and two outside the conference.

A pair of non-conference affairs are set for Saturday, when Manawa journeys to Amherst, and Stanley-Boyd, the No. 2-ranked power in the state's small schools, takes on Weyauwega in the Indians' homecoming. The remaining CW school, Wittenberg, is idle for the weekend.

Heavy Favorite

Despite the big loss to Berlin, the Comets will be heavy favorites to whip Marion. Mustangs' coach John Buchholz has had nothing but problems in his first year, the latest headache a 13-0 defeat by Manawa which virtually eliminated Marion from CW title consideration.

Manawa will likewise be a top-heavy choice to beat part-time conference member Amherst. While the Wolves were blanking Marion a week ago, the Falcons absorbed a 46-0 licking by Wittenberg.

In Stanley, Weyauwega will be facing one of the top teams from northwestern Wisconsin. The Cloverbelt League representative is currently 4-0 for the season, having allowed just one touchdown. The Orioles have thrashed Thorp, 10-0; Cadott, 21-0; Altoona, 31-6; and Gilman, 32-0, last week.

Stanley is paced by a hard-running senior fullback Ken Roberts, who has scored six touchdowns and rushed for 309 yards thus far. He gained 139 yards in 18 carries and scored four times against Gilman.

Waupaca High to Join Talent Search

WAUPACA — The University of Chicago has again invited the high school to participate in its small school talent search program for the coming year, according to Roman Daniels, guidance director at the school. The program is to encourage worthy and well motivated students to seek higher education. James Nicewander, a 1966 graduate of Waupaca High School, won a scholarship in the program two years ago and is now attending the University of Chicago.

The yet-winless Bonduel Bears try to climb out of the league cellar with a victory at Oconto Friday night, and Seymour's band of Indians seek to get back to the .500 mark at Pay Port Saturday afternoon as part of a 6-game Northeastern Wisconsin Conference slate this weekend.

The accent in the NEW was on defense last week, as four of the winning teams scored just two touchdowns and the other two victors scraped by with one TD. Bonduel managed to get its first points of the year in conference play but lost, 13-7, to De Pere, while Seymour was blanked by Algoma, 13-0.

Eisewhere, Oconto Falls upset Sturgeon Bay, 7-0; West De Pere tipped Pulaski, 13-6; Ashwaubenon got past Bay Port, 14-7; and Kewaunee nudged Oconto, 6-0.

Bonduel made its best showing to date against the Redbirds last Thursday. The Bears battled De Pere (now 3-0) on even terms for the first half, but a pass interception and a fumble set up the two Redbird touchdowns in the opening six minutes of the third period.

Drives Over

Ken Boettcher engineered the lone Bonduel score following the pair of De Pere TDs, finally driving over from the 2-yard line. Dave Rankin's 29-yard pass to Tom Betzner featured the 71-yard drive.

Breaks also played a big part in Seymour's loss. The Wolves took advantage of a pass interference call to set up a second-period scoring pass from 10 yards out, and then got the clincher in the final frame after the Indians failed to get off a punt.

Conference statistics show Seymour's Pete King is second in the passing department. King has completed 20 out of 47 tosses for 261 yards, ranking behind Oconto Falls' Dan Coopman. Coopman has completed one less pass than King in three fewer attempts but has picked up 278 yards.

King's favorite target has been Jim Anschutz, who has caught five aeriels for 96 yards. Anschutz is fourth in the circuit. Randy Engelbert of Ashwaubenon is on top with seven catches for 162 yards. Bonduel's Mel Busch has snatched the most passes of anyone in the league (12) for 58 yards.

A trio of players — Steve Herms, Oconto Falls; Mike Williams, West De Pere; and Dave Ripp, Sturgeon Bay — share the scoring lead with three TDs apiece, for 18 points. Seymour's Anschutz is in a 6-way tie for fourth with 12 points.

One other Seymour player broke into the top statistic makers this week. He is Wes Neilson, who is fifth in rushing with 143 yards on 43 carries. Sturgeon Bay's John Piarr has galloped 283 yards on 63 carries for the best mark.

Missionary to Conduct Worship At Shiocton

SHIOCTON — Special services are planned Sunday through Oct. 4 at the First Congregational Church. Services will be conducted daily at 8 p.m. with the Rev. Alvin Van Schooten as guest speaker, the Rev. Norman Werner, pastor, has announced. The guest preacher was a missionary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance to Japan since 1955, and he and his family have been engaged in pioneer evangelism in rural Japan and in administrative work and teaching. During the past four years he has been a missionary teacher at the Japan Alliance Bible College in Hiroshima. The school is a training center for nationals preparing them to become ministers and church workers in Japan.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 3, services will be held at the George Olsen home in rural Shiocton. Preceding the Oct. 4 evening service, the annual Fall Festival "potluck" supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. At this, pictures of the mission and a missionary offering will be received.

Plymouth, Chilton Clash Friday in EW Feature Title

CHILTON — The Tigers, with a 2-1 season record and a defense that has refused to give up a touchdown in three games, will meet the second place Plymouth Panthers, 2-0-1, here Friday night.

Both touchdowns scored against the Tigers have been against the offensive unit on a pass interception and a fumble. Other Friday night games in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference will have Sheboygan Falls (0-3-0) at New Holstein (2-1-0); League leading Kohler (30-0) at Cedar Grove (120); Valdres (2-1-0) at Oostburg (0-2-1). Keil will win on a forfeit from Elkhart Lake.

Last Friday Keil edged Chilton, 7-6; Plymouth beat Sheboygan Falls, 13-7; Kohler defeated Oostburg, 14-7, and New Holstein and 557 series, and John Coismann, 562 series.

604 Pin Series Leads Monday Night League

BRILLION — Willis (Bick) Scharf copped bowling honors with a 233 game and 604 series in the Monday night Men's American League at Koffarnus Lanes.

Other high scores posted were Don Barnard's 226 game and 595 series, Milt Maertz' 226 game and 573 series, Fritz Bloedorn's 563 series, Gene Olm's 226 game and 557 series, and John Coismann, 562 series.
